MARIETTA JURY INDICTS DR. J. S. FREEMAN IN BIZARRE HUMAN-TORCH DEATH OF FRIEND

FULTON GROUPS ASK COMMISSION FOR MORE RELIEF

Protest Against Rumored
Closing of WPA Sewing Rooms; Dark Picture of Conditions Is Painted.

Delegations from East point, Roswell, College Park and Hapeville made a concerted demand on the Fulton county commission yesterday for larger relief appropriations and voiced their protests against the rumored closing of WPA sewing rooms in these localities for which the Fulton county board of public welfare takes contributions.

Mayor J. R. Parham and C. H.
Livesey, of East Point; Mayor G.
Harris, of College Park; Mayor
Guy Webb, of Roswell, and Mayor R. Cathy, of Hapeville, were among those who appeared before the commission to describe the dire situation in their communities.

Paint Dark Picture.
Both Parham and C. H. Livesey painted a dark picture of relief in East Point where they said white persons were given only 47 cents a week for food and colored persons only 26 cents. They said East point citizens were paying the rent for many families, who otherwise would be pushed out of their homes.

The commissioners pointed out that the Fulton county board of public welfare and not the county commission was charged with the administration of relief funds but that every effort would be made to keep the sewing rooms open.

On motion of Commissioner Roy Chastain, the commission voted to ask the public works committee to make an investigation of the sewing room projects and see if they could not be made separate WPA projects, entirely free from the welfare board. The board now contributes $3.50 per apartment for materials for the sewing room projects.

British Officer on Visit Here Figures 98 Degrees Is a

Colonel Richard V. Read, military attache of the British embassy, in Washington, has the perfect philosophical approach to summer.

While the mercury fought its way up to 98 degrees, a new high for the year, the Colonel mopped his brow and wondered if Atlanta wasn't an unusually cool sort of place.

"I don't find it too bad," he said, giving his brow another swipe with his handkerchief.

He explained that a week or so ago he had been in Arizona when the thermometer got stuck at 108.

Before Arizona it was Chicago.
Chicago, the Colonel believes, was the hottest place of all. More uncomfortable even than India, Palestine or Egypt, where he has spent a good part of his time.

Colonel Read rode in with the heat wave yesterday morning on a courtesy inspection of the Fourth Corps Area. He leaves here Sun-

SPECIAL SESSION SEEN IF CRISIS GROWS IN EUROPE

Administration Virtually Serves Notice To Stand By; Foreign Advances Reported Unfavorable.

WASHINGTON, July 19.—(AP)—
The Roosevelt administration, balked in its attempt to revise the neutrality law at this session of congress, virtually served notice on the legislators today to stand ready to respond to a special session call if Europe's troubles again grow acute.

A new crisis, it was said at the White House, would most certainly result in such a call. And, it was added, the administration's advice from the foreign service indicated that such a crisis was a distinct possibility.

"I'm certain of one thing," Stephen Early, presidential secretary, told reporters. "From the time congress adjourns until it reconvenes in January, the President will pray as never before in all his life that there will be no new crisis in Europe."

Meanwhile several senators predicted much public discussion of the question in the months ahead.
While no one apparently expected President Roosevelt to make his fight in the way in which Woodrow Wilson went on tour in support of the League of Nations, Senator Pittman, Democrat, Nevada, said it would be "quite natural" for the chief executive to "express his position with regard to neutrality legislation" in any speech he might make "on the general welfare." Secretary Early passed word, however, that the President was not expected to discuss neutrality on his forthcoming trip to the west coast.

Opponents of the administration foreign policy announced their readiness to reply to any new appeal. Their slogan would be, said Senator Johnson, Republican, California, that "this country wants no war."

Congressional action was postponed after a memorable battle of wills between Mr. Roosevelt and senators. This conflict reached its climax last night in an unusual White House conference attended by the Republican as well as the Democratic leadership of the senate.

The senators of both parties told the chief executive in definite language that such was the temper and inclination of the senate that to get the administration program up for action, let alone obtain its passage, was a legislative impossibility. Mr. Roosevelt and Secretary of State Hull unwillingly yielded, and the subject went over with the understanding that it would be the first item on the program when congress reconvenes.

The administration program

Press Reports German Troops Will Be in 'State of Alert' by August 15.

PARIS, July 19.—(UP)—The French press today published reports describing extensive German military activities and suggesting that the Reich's armed forces will be in a "state of alert" around August 15.

The Paris Midi, said flatly: "We are on the eve of German mobilization August 15," and the Excelior said: "Germany seems to wish to give the impression that she is ready for war."

When such information reaches all Paris newspapers simultaneously it is certain that it comes from the highest sources.

Thus the French government either has received official information causing it to fear another period of tension, or it is putting special emphasis on less positive reports in order to offset the possibility of another surprise move by Chancellor Hitler such as led to the Munich destruction of Czechoslovakia last year.

The information on which the dispatches were based was said to include:

DOCTOR ACCUSED OF THROWING GAS, THEN SETTING FIRE

2d Indictment Charges Assault With Intent To Murder Atlanta Fruit Peddler With Narcotics.

A grand jury at Marietta late yesterday indicted on a murder charge Dr. J. S. Freeman, ex-convict and a combination lawyer and physician of the Belmont community, near Smyrna, who has been held without bail since the fatal burning June 13 of Aaron Saunders, unemployed associate of the doctor.

The jury charged that Freeman "knowingly, wilfully, feloniously and with malice killed" Saunders "by pouring and by throwing gasoline over and upon Saunders" and that "after so doing he set fire to the clothing, body and limbs" of Saunders.

Perished in Truck.

Action of the jury followed appearance before it of all of the witnesses who had testified at the coroner's inquest immediately after Saunders' bizarre death from flames while sitting in the cab of a long-abandoned truck on which he and Freeman had been at work.

Another indictment returned by the grand jury charged Freeman with assault with intent to murder Henry L. Cole, 65, an Atlanta fruit peddler, "by administering a certain narcotic, which is unknown to jury, by means of a needle into the arms" of Cole.

Charge Perjury.

Only the previous day the jury had produced a true bill against Freeman charging that he gave false testimony in bringing dispossession proceedings against his mother-in-law, Mrs. Bessie (W.
H.) Davis.

Freeman will face a trial jury next week on the murder charge, it was announced by Solicitor General Grady Vandiviere, of the Blue Ridge circuit. The prosecutor said this was normal procedure as the criminal calendar would be called for trial at that time.

Other Auto Burned.

One of yesterday's witnesses was Joe Hammer, of Atlanta, who testified concerning Freeman's transactions with him for an automobile which, ten days before Saunders' fatal burning, was wrecked and burned on the Bankhead highway. Freeman and Saunders were in this automobile accident, and coincidentally, they had 25-cent short-term accident insurance policies, as on the later occasion when Saunders died in the ramshackle truck, parked for six months in the yard of a home near Smyrna, where Freeman took his meals.

While the grand jury proceedings were in secret, the nature of the testimony received was indicated by the sworn statements made by the same witnesses be-

SCHOOL FUND BOOST SOUGHT IN ALABAMA
MONTGOMERY, Ala., July 19. (AP)—Appropriations bills carrying annual outlays of more than $40,000,000 and increasing educational funds $2,452,000 a year, won approval of the legislature's joint finance and taxation committee today. Senator Hayne Tucker, chairman, announced appropriations matched anticipated income as figured on the basis of current business conditions and said the bills would be introduced tomorrow. High and elementary schools were given an outright increase of $1,982,000, plus any general fund balance in excess of $750,000 at the end of each fiscal year.

WOMAN IS SLAIN, STEPSON JAILED

Remarriage Hinted as Cause of Youth's Act.

DOUGLAS, Ga., July 19. (AP)—Sheriff R. C. Relihan said today he was holding Eustace Davis, 22-year-old Nichols youth, without bond in the Ware county jail in connection with the fatal shooting of his young step-mother, Mrs. Frank Davis.

Mrs. Davis was slain with a shotgun, the sheriff said, as she sat on the porch of her home last night. Young Davis was removed to Waycross, Sheriff Relihan explained, because "there was a lot of excitement here about the thing."

Sheriff's Story.

Sheriff Relihan told the following story of the shooting: Eustace, who "apparently resented his father marrying the young woman," came home Tuesday night, riding the running board of his father's car. He went directly to his room, got a 16-gauge shotgun and stepped out a side door. A moment later he appeared behind his stepmother, and killed her instantly with a charge in the back of her neck.

"Then he went in the house," the sheriff continued, "and his father shot at him in the hall, but he ran out back and hid in the branch. Later he came back and went to his room, where he waited for officers."

to do for a long time, but didn't say why he shot the woman."

Married Three Years.

The sheriff said Mrs. Davis was "between 25 and 30 years old." She married the elder Davis, a prosperous turpentine operator and farmer, about three years ago, after his first wife died.

"Eustace has always been an unruly boy," the sheriff said. "His father never could do anything with him."

Relihan said the elder Davis had refused earlier in the day to give Eustace $2, "because he wouldn't work or do anything," but added, "I don't think that had anything to do with the shooting. He apparently resented his father marrying the young woman for a long time."

Young Davis is to be returned to Douglas "in a few days," Sheriff Relihan said, for probable trial at the August 21 term of Coffee county superior court.

Told Guards He Couldn't Swim—And He Was Right

OMAHA, July 19. (AP)—Steve Vanderziel, 21, Fort Crook soldier, was right.

Lifeguards at a beach near here related he told them he couldn't swim very well and asked them to keep an eye on him when he dived.

He came to the surface, then disappeared. The guards pulled him out, used artificial respiration and a pulmotor to revive him.

ALABAMA SOLON DIES.

DOTHAN, Ala., July 19. (AP)—Senator Timothy Sauls Faulk, of Samson, veteran Alabama legislator, died in a Dothan hospital today following an operation. He was 73.

Fish caught off Norway yielded 507,049 gallons of cod-liver oil in two months.

Elaine Barrie Will Receive $500 Weekly From Barrymore Play

Estranged Wife of Actor Wins Ruling on Dismissal.

NEW YORK, July 19. (AP)—Elaine Barrie is getting $500 a week for not appearing with her estranged husband, John Barrymore, in the play "My Dear Children," it developed today.

She was awarded $4,562.50 in back salary by the American Arbitration Association today, and will receive $500 a week as long as the play runs or until the expiration of her run-of-the-play contract, which ends at the close of 1939.

The arbitration board added, however, that she must get the permission of the play's producers, the M. D. C. Corporation, before accepting other theatrical employment and must pay back any money she earns up to $500.

Miss Barrie, who had a spat with Barrymore, received her dismissal notice and walked out of the cast in St. Louis. Her salary had been held in escrow pending arbitration of the claim she filed through Actor's Equity.

While "My Dear Children" is still running in Chicago, she has been playing in a stock company in Pennsylvania. If the play comes to New York, she will get a share of the profits, the arbitration board decided.

$3,910,132 NOW DUE SCHOOLS—COLLINS

ATHENS, Ga., July 19. (AP)—Georgia will owe the common schools $7,150,171.50 at the end of the next fiscal year unless the general assembly meets in extra session this year, Superintendent M. D. Collins told the Institute of the Georgia Congress of Parents and Teachers here today.

"There is a balance due on the 1938-39 school term of $3,910,132.78," Dr. Collins said. "This is a definite, pronounced obligation of the state to the teachers of Georgia for services rendered, and this financial obligation and moral obligation should be paid to the 20-odd thousand faithful and efficient teachers of this state."

"The legislative economy and efficiency committee recommended $10,997,274.86 for the school year 1939-40 and $11,516,763.86 for the school year 1940-41."

"The appropriation for 1937 was

SENATE GROUP DELAYS RIVERS, HARBOR BILL

WASHINGTON, July 19. (AP)—Chairman Bailey, Democrat, North Carolina, of the senate committee, said today he probably would delay at least until next week consideration of the $400,000,000 omnibus authorization bill for rivers and harbors.

He explained he abandoned plans to call it up immediately because Senator Bilbo, Democrat, Mississippi, was leaving the capital until late this week.

only $9,687,000, which would have been sufficient to pay the educational bill if it had not been for homestead and household exemptions which came into the picture after this suggested appropriation.

FIRST LADY LINKED TO DRINKING HABITS

Dickinson Resumes Campaign Against 'High Life' in Radio Talk.

ANSING, Mich., July 19.—Governor Luren D. Dickinson's 80-year-old cringing chief executive, tonight resumed his campaign against liquor "high life society" with a radio address in which he linked the mule of "a prominent lady of nation" with the drinking habits of modern women.

He said that the "prominent" to whom he referred is Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Dickinson, the oldest Governor in the United States who last week delivered a scathing attack upon "high life society" as he saw it at the recent Governors' conference in Albany, N. Y., attacked the evils of liquor and the pitfall that society holds for innocent young girls.

Dickinson said: "It is not what one contacts immediately at these high-class functions that is the danger, but it is what they take away. These ladies and men that I saw drinking were not intoxicated as might be inferred. Why? I do not know, unless it might be that they learned the formula advised by a prominent lady of our nation just before liquor came back after prohibition when she made the statement to young girls that if they would avoid being called prigs 'the average girl of today faces the problem of learning very young how much she can drink of such things as whisky, gin, etc., and sticking to the proper quantity.'"

Make Hair Grow while the sun shines

"It is a well known phenomenon that in the summer the growth of hair is more rapid," says Dr. Arnold Lorand, Vienna Dermatologist.

THAT Hair grows faster in the summer than at any other season is an established scientific fact. You can take advantage of this seasonal peculiarity by starting Thomas' hair and scalp treatment at once.

Your hair will respond more quickly to this famous proved method of treatment now than at any other time. Within an unusually short time your dandruff will disappear, abnormal hairfall will stop, and new hair will actually be visible on the thin and bald spots. Call at the Thomas' office and talk your problem over with the expert in charge. He will gladly examine your scalp without charge or obligation and frankly tell you what Thomas' treatment can do for you. Come in today.

Another Columbus WPA Aide Ousted

Shepperson Refuses To Reveal Employee's Name; Relief Agency Pushes
Its Own Investigation.

The simmering affairs of Georgia's Works Projects Administration brought the dismissal of another administrative employee yesterday as the investigation of alleged misappropriations of WPA materials and labor in Muscogee county continued.

In keeping with her policy, Miss Gay E. Shepperson, state administrator, refused to make public the Columbus employee's name, or the names of the four other administrative and supervisory employees released at the beginning of the week for "lack of supervision."

A complete report of the alleged diversion of WPA materials and labor to private use in the county has been sent to Attorney General Frank Murphy in Washington, Miss Shepperson said last Monday.

Alleged Misuses.

At Columbus, the Muscogee county commission maintained its position that it "had nothing to do" with the alleged misappropriations. According to the charges, WPA labor and materials approximating $6,500 had been used to build a dam and spillway, mail boxes, two tennis courts, drive-ways, retaining walls, to rebuild a demolished building, and to improve yards; all adjacent to the right-of-way of a road project.

Meanwhile, C. E. Goranson, field agent in charge of WPA's investigation division, reported his staff was inquiring into a number of alleged law violations involving the work relief agency in scattered sections of Georgia.

"Mostly Spite or Petty," He said complaints were filed in his office "from time to time" regarding alleged violations, but added "we find a majority of them based on spite and petty grievances and do not warrant prosecution."

Another investigation into WPA affairs was reported to be proceeding quietly. It is conducted by E. W. Erickson and C. F. Johnson, investigators for the subcommittee of the committee on appropriations of the house of representatives. They were understood to be concerned principally with individual complaints from various parts of the state which had received attention in Washington.

Barlow Showdown.

Tomorrow, unless Superior Court Judge John C. Mitchell, of the Cherokee circuit, relents, WPA Area Engineer W. F. Green, of Marietta, will either produce the work relief rolls for Barlow county or go to jail.

Greene was cited for contempt of court last week by Judge Mitchell when he refused to produce the list at the request of a grand jury investigating relief conditions in Barlow county.

Grand jury was convened after numerous complaints had been received that there was no available farm labor, while "several hundred" in the county "were unemployed."

Tomorrow is Deadline. Greene told the judge that he could not make public the names of those on relief without permission of Colonel F. C. Harrington, a national administrator. Judge Mitchell gave him until tomorrow to obtain the administrator's permission or go to jail.

Judge Mitchell said yesterday that Miss Shepperson had wired him, asking what purpose the grand jury had in making the demand, but said thus far there was no indication of official permission being granted to release the list.

CANADIAN WOMAN CLAIMS ASSAULT

Mother and Daughter Are Charged With Tarring and Feathering.

CALGARY, July 19.—(Canadian Press)—Charges of assault were filed today against Mrs. Ethel Allen and her daughter, Betty, after a 28-year-old student nurse, Alice Knowles, reported to police she had been tarred and feathered in her apartment last night.

Chief of Police David Ritchie said the nurse was in a hospital suffering from shock and burns about her face and body. Police found a pail of roofing paint in her apartment and expressed belief her burns were caused by chemicals in the paint.

Authorities were unable to advance any motive for the attack but said Miss Knowles apparently had feared some such occurrence.

Mrs. Allen and her daughter were taken into custody but released on $100 bail each pending appearance in police court tomorrow.

SPECIAL SESSION ON WAR IS SEEN

calls first for the repeal of the embargo on war supplies to belligerent nations. The existence of this embargo the administration regards as an encouragement to Germany and Italy to go to war for territorial expansion. The argument runs that this is true because, with the embargo on the books, Great Britain and France would be unable to draw upon America for war supplies.

With the embargo gone, it is conceded by both sides, British supremacy at sea would make pay cash and take title to the exclusion of their foes.

Instead of the embargo, the administration would install a system under which belligerents could buy here but would have to pay cash and take title to the goods before they were shipped. American shipping and citizens would be forbidden to enter combat zones as set aside by the President, and loans and contributions to belligerents would be prohibited.

Thus the administration contends that its program not only fulfills America's obligation to exert its influence for peace, but protects America from involvement in a foreign war, if one should break out. Opponents of the plan vigorously dispute this, think no war is imminent, and believe that taking sides with Great Britain not only is unnecessary but dangerous.

Garner's Advice. According to a conference, Vice President Garner gave this advice to the President:

"Let's be candid, Captain; you haven't got the votes."

The ultimate decision to leave neutrality out of the present session's program prompted legislators to predict an early adjournment. July 29 or August 5 were the dates usually mentioned, with opinion obviously preponderant for the earlier one. All conceded that it depended on what progress is made with the new administration lending program, the only major piece of legislation left to be disposed of.

As for taking the neutrality issue "to the country," both Senator Barkley (Kentucky), the majority leader, and Senator Pittman, chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, expressed doubt that Mr. Roosevelt would handle the issue as did Wilson with the League of Nations. However, Barkley agreed with Pittman that the President probably would have more to say on the subject.

Senator Austin, Republican, Vermont, the assistant minority leader, who also attended last night's meeting, said there was no doubt that both the President and his opponents would "carry to the country the merits of the neutrality issue."

POLAND WELCOMES
NEUTRALITY REPORT

WARSAW, July 19.—(P)—The Washington report that President Roosevelt may call a special session of congress to act on neutrality legislation should a European crisis develop was welcomed in Poland tonight.

Polish officials, however, made no comment on the President's abandonment of efforts to revise neutrality laws at this time.

DROPPING OF ARMS BILL PLEASED TO BERLIN

BERLIN, July 19.—(P)—Government officials were content merely to beam today when asked for their reaction to postponement of United States neutrality legislation until 1940.

"Naturally we are not sorry. We certainly are not going to cry about it," was the only comment.

DR. ADAMS BUYS HIMSELF A ROAD!

Yes Sir, He Pays $2,340.80 for Cascade-Childers Drive Short Cut.

Dr. Charles R. Adams, Fulton county commissioner, bought a road yesterday.

Now if you went home and told your wife you had just purchased a big, shiny automobile she probably would smile and pat you on the back and call you all kinds of names. But suppose you just came out with "Honey, I've bought a road..."

But the doctor didn't seem a bit worried yesterday when he presented Mrs. Mabel McNeal, Fulton county treasurer, his personal check for $2,340.80 for the paving of Adams road, a 4,400-foot stretch between Cascade road and Childers drive.

All over the county there runs a network of roads that have been paved from time to time by the county commission. Many were paved because of the interests of one commissioner. Some begin at odd points and end at equally odd points.

Well, Dr. Adams, wise politician that he is, figured his constituents wouldn't be very pleased if they thought he got the county commission to pave a road in which he had a particular interest. So he decided the best thing to do was to pay for the paving out of his own pocket.

The paving will be completed in about 60 days and the new road will form a short cut between Cascade road and Childers drive. Water and sewerage have been installed for future development.

TWO DIVERS WORK ON SUNKEN SQUALUS

Colds Keep 5 Others From Descending in Attempt To Raise Sub.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., July 19.—(P)—The navy sent two men down to the sunken Squalus today for the first actual work on the $4,000,000 submarine since the initial attempt to raise her failed last week.

Colds kept three divers from putting on their suits and forced two others to come to the surface before they reached the Squalus, which lies with 26 dead on an almost even keel in 240 feet of water. Doctors indicated the colds were not serious.

Diver Neil G. Shahan today descended to the control room hatch and opened valves into the control room and the forward battery compartments—the first stage in a plan to put the forward part of the ship under pressure to ease seepage.

The other diver, James E. Baker, attached a hose to the forward torpedo room to replace one carried away when the bow shot momentarily to the surface last Thursday.

Naval officers decided last night to pursue their original plan virtually unchanged. However, they will use 10 pontoons in the lifting operation instead of seven.

Three of the seven pontoons used last week still are attached to the Squalus's stern.

Public Favors Dropping Strikers From WPA Rolls, Survey Shows

By American Institute of Public Opinion. PRINCETON, N. J., July 19.—Virtually complete returns from a special survey of public sentiment on the WPA strike issue indicate that a majority of American voters approve the action of Works Progress Administrator F. C. Harlington in removing strikers from the WPA rolls.

Voters in all income levels throughout the country were asked this question:

"The head of the WPA says WPA workers who go on strike will be dropped from the WPA after five days on strike. Do you approve or disapprove of this action?"

Approve 74%
Disapprove 26%

Approximately one voter in every 10 (9 per cent) expressed no opinion.

Even among WPA workers questioned in the survey there was sharp disagreement over the action of WPA officials. Half of those reached in the survey (50 per cent) said they approved the dismissal of strikers, while the other half disapproved.

In explaining reasons for their attitude, voters who approve the firing of WPA strikers say, chiefly, that WPA is a "form of charity" and the workers should be "glad of what they get." On the other hand, voters who disapprove the dismissals argue that "all workers should have the right to strike" and that the WPA "doesn't give them enough money anyway."

KING INSTALLS KENT AS MASONIC MASTER

LONDON, July 19.—(P)—King George tonight installed his brother, the Duke of Kent, as grand master of the Masonic United Grand Lodge of England, succeeding his great uncle, the Duke of Connaught.

Twelve thousand Freemasons from all parts of the world, including 27 from the United States, attended the ceremony.

COUNTY AUTO CASE IS UP TO WATKINS

Officer Whose Car Figured in Accident Is Subordinate of Judge.

Decision as to whether disciplinary action would be taken against John N. Starnes, veteran Fulton county juvenile court probation officer whose county-owned automobile figured in an accident during a private trip, rested with Judge Garland Watkins last night after Fulton county commissioners declared they had no right to suspend him.

Chairman E. L. Almond said the law gave the commission the right to suspend or discharge only those persons directly employed by the commission and that Starnes was employed directly by Judge Watkins.

Judge Watkins said he had just returned from his vacation, had not received official notice of the commission's action and was not in position to say what his decision would be.

Meanwhile, Starnes was reported to be performing his regular duties.

Harlan Mine Strike Settled By Compromise Agreement

Both Sides Waive Major Differences at U. S.-Sponsored Parley; Union Gives Up 'Closed Shop' and Operators Abandon 'Strike Penalty.'

HARLAN, Ky., July 19.—(P)—Union miners and coal operators waived major differences today to bring peace again to strife-torn Harlan county.

After conferring with federal conciliators at Knoxville, Tenn., for five days, the United Mine Workers (CIO) and Harlan County Coal Operators' Association representatives adopted a seven-point pact to run until March 31, 1941.

The union gave way on its demands for a "union shop" and in turn the operators waived the "strike penalty" clause, objected to by the union, and also agreed to dismiss eviction proceedings against all miners.

The agreement provides for the immediate return to work of all employees to their respective mines without discrimination or prejudice. No new employees are to be hired until all old employees have been given an opportunity to work.

The "union shop" clause, which would require all miners to become members within a specified time, had been included in other contracts signed with operators. The "strike penalty" provides a fine against the union for "illegal" strikes.

The agreement climaxed two months of intermittent efforts in which federal and state conciliators participated.

Governor Chandler, who sent troops into Harlan county May 14 to "protect" miners returning to work at non-union mines after the six-week general shutdown, said today: "As soon as I have assurance from both the union and operators that there will be no recurrence of disorder I will withdraw the soldiers."

Secretary of Labor Perkins, at Washington, hailed the settlement as a return of "industrial peace" to Harlan county. She said:

"The result showed once more that peaceful collective bargaining is the proper and satisfactory instrument with which to adjust industrial disputes in the interests of the parties directly concerned and of the public."

Periodic flareups of violence have marked the two-month period. Last Wednesday two union men were fatally wounded and four other persons—including a national guard captain—wounded in a skirmish between troops and union pickets. Two hundred and fifty-seven persons are under bond as a result of the battle.

Freeman-Saunders investigation. The indictment charged Harrison struck Davis over the head with a beer bottle, causing a wound from which he died five days later at his home. County Policeman Steve Hicks said Davis was slugged during what he termed a "family brawl," witnessed by Mrs. Davis.

Woman 99 Years Old Will Cast Her First Vote

FREEMAN INDICTED; CHARGES MURDER

fore the coroner's jury.

A. J. Goodwin, one of these witnesses, described the burning of Saunders:

"I was standing at the front door when I heard a child scream for help. That there was a man burning up. As I ran across the road from my house to the truck, I saw a man going into the front door of the house (where the truck was standing)."

"Saunders was sitting there, blazing from his waist up. Then Dr. Freeman came walking around the house."

"Doc, there's a man burning up alive," I said.

"Yeah," said Doc, "but there's not much we can do about it."

"Who is he, Doc?" I asked.

"I don't know him," Doc told me.

Freeman later said by several witnesses to have admitted he knew Saunders well. Goodwin also made this definite assertion to the coroner's jury:

"It looked like somebody poured gasoline on him. The truck wasn't burning, and the man was burning only from the waist up."

Other witnesses before the grand jury were Juanita Smith, 13, daughter of the house where Freeman took his meals and the truck was parked; her father, Gordon Smith, Mrs. Ed Covington and Dr. J. C. Yancey.

Young Juanita, at the coroner's inquest had told of being instructed by Freeman to leave the spot where she and some other children were watching Freeman and Saunders trying to fit a "dead" battery without wires into the elongated truck.

"He said Mr. Saunders wasn't feeling good," swore the young witness, "and that we were bothering him by standing there. We went away and pretty soon the fire happened."

The Cole incident, leading to the indictment for assault with intent to murder, was said to involve an automobile accident which occurred between Atlanta and Marietta.

Harrison Is Indicted. The grand jury also returned a murder indictment against C. W. Harrison, 44, in the fatal slaying of his father-in-law, John Hardy Davis, 67-year-old Belmont Stop filling station operator and before his death a key witness in the

NEW COUNTY PLAN IT BY HOWELL AND TALMADGE

air Loose Advance Blasts Over Consolidation; Both Seen as Foes in Governor's Race.

By The Associated Press.
Controversy over consolidation of counties brought advance blasts yesterday from two men who may oppose candidates for Governor in the 1940 Democratic primary.

Eugene Talmadge, predecessor Governor Rivers, charged the chief executive and his "cohorts" with "trying to break down nine-tenths of the counties of Georgia and abolish them."

At the same time, Hugh Howell asserted "a small group in Georgia wants to abolish a large number country courthouses and further like the actual government away from the people. . . I am opposed to the forced consolidation of any counties in Georgia, and propose to make that a major issue in the coming campaign for Governor."

Runners-Up to Rivers.
Howell was runner-up to Governor Rivers when the latter campaign for re-election last summer. He has announced intention of running again in 1940.

Talmadge, mentioned as a possible gubernatorial candidate next year, contended he warned Rivers in 1935, when the latter was speaker of the house, that adoption of homestead tax exemptions would mean the abolishment of the counties of the state. "Exemptions, since written into the Georgia constitution, have cost the state's 159 counties an estimated 1,800,000 annually in tax revenue."

"The speaker of the house and now Governor of Georgia, and a few of their cohorts, smiled at this and thought it would be a joke to abolish about nine-tenths of the counties," Talmadge said. "They are now secretly working to bring this about."

New Deal Foundation.
"That is the foundation of the New Deal—centralized government. It means that all of the state government will be handled in Atlanta, and then tie in and worship at the feet of those in Washington."

The former Governor also charged an attempt to abolish Georgia's county unit system of primary voting and predicted
"when you abolish the county unit system for elections, two or three cities in Georgia can control all elections."

Talmadge recalled he had advocated tax relief by overall limitation of county and municipal taxes, but that this was defeated in a referendum.

Youth Milks Way To Degree and Job

ATHENS, Ga., July 19.—(P)—
The ability of Robert N. Langford, of Athens, to milk 12 cows with profit brought him both a university degree and a job.

Langford paid his way through school with the cows. Milton P. Jarnagin, head of the animal husbandry department, said he did so well that when the position of dairy herdsman at the College of Agriculture became vacant, the post was offered him. He succeeds Charles M.
Snoak, who left to join the Delta Co-operative Farms in Lexington, Miss.

GALLUP TO POLL VOTERS IN FRANCE

Public Opinion Survey Offers News of How Frenchmen View Events.

The American Institute of Public Opinion (Gallup poll), whose weekly surveys of American sentiment appear regularly in The Constitution, has organized an affiliate in France—the French Institute of Public Opinion.

Three years ago a similar organization was started in England.
Through the American Institute of Public Opinion, the British Institute of Public Opinion and the French Institute of Public Opinion now can be measured in the three leading democratic countries at the same time and one the same questions.

For the first time in history the readers of The Constitution will be able to follow what Englishmen, Frenchmen and Americans are saying and thinking about world problems.

The first joint report of the three institutes will be published Friday, July 21, exclusively in The Constitution.

It will show how voters in the three countries answer the questions. What foreign country do you like best? What foreign country do you like least?

1,500 Jars Needed To Preserve Food for Underprivileged Pupils

Kitchen at Boys' High School Cafeteria Is Bulging With Vegetables and Fruit But Supply of Containers Is Running Low.

A small attempt to balance bounty and privation was approaching a not too successful end yesterday . . . because there weren't enough jars.

The bounty is in the fruits and vegetables that overflow the markets these warm summer days.
The privation is in the amount of nourishing food available to underprivileged Atlanta school children during the cold winter months.

The WPA and board of education have an arrangement this ed if an adequate supply of food is to be canned.

They have asked anybody interested to contribute as many jars, old or new as they can. They may be delivered at the school cafeteria, or the officials will call for them anywhere in Atlanta.

CITIZENS REQUEST LOUISIANA PROBE OF ALL AFFAIRS

Voluntary Committee of 100 Demands Long Stage Sweeping Investigation Due to L. S. U. Scandal.

NEW ORLEANS, July 19.—(AP)—New Orleans businessmen—100 strong—today demanded Governor Earl K. Long authorize an independent and sweeping investigation of all Louisiana governmental affairs which sponsors said would be along the lines of that carried out in New York city by Samuel Seabury in 1932.

The action, an outgrowth of the scandal discovered at Louisiana State University, was taken by a group named the "voluntary committee of citizens in Louisiana," organized here today.

Airey Heads Group.

Joseph A. Airey, cotton broker here, headed the committee.

Meanwhile federal investigators here delved into alleged income tax violations and "hot oil" matters.

Former Governor Richard W. Leche, armed with documents, went back before the hard-working East Baton Rouge parish grand jury today for the second time to relate his connection with university affairs, and the events directly preceding resignation of Dr. James Monroe Smith as president of the school on June 25, less than 24 hours before Leche himself quit as governor.

After two hours of questioning, he returned to his home in Covington, La., indicating he might be summoned again.

TWO BLOODHOUNDS ESCAPE, TRACKED DOWN BY CONVICTS

CANON CITY, Col., July 19.—(AP)—Two fugitive Colorado penitentiary bloodhounds were tracked down by convicts today.

One of the dogs, Beau, had been adopted as a pet by the Starika children, Dominic, 14, and Jennie, 10. Bess, the other, was found in an alfalfa field about half a mile from the Starika home.

The dogs ran away Monday night after a prison truck, carrying them out to start a hunt for an escaped prisoner, collided with an automobile. No one was hurt.

Guards and convict trustees were put on the dogs' trail.

The escaped convict was captured a few hours after the "hound truck" wreck.

owner, was indicted here Monday for using the mails to defraud, along with four others including Louis C. Lesage, whom M. J. Rathbone, president of the Standard Oil Company of Louisiana, today suspended from active duty as his assistant pending outcome of charges against him.

O. John Rogge, assistant attorney general sent here by Attorney General Frank Murphy, today cautioned politicians against any effort to conceal disposal of funds derived by a five per cent deduction from state employees' salaries, which deductions are under investigation by the grand jury.

BRAZILIANS RESTRICT FOREIGN PUBLICATIONS

RIO DE JANEIRO, July 19.—(AP)—Publication of foreign language newspapers, magazines and pamphlets will be authorized in Brazil in the future only if a full Portuguese translation also is published, Minister of Justice Francisco Campos declared today in a regulation.

Sixty foreign language publications are listed in Brazil, including sixteen German, nine Italian, eight Japanese and five English.

Opening of 9 Liquor Stores in County Approved

Here is a large portion of the delegation from the Lakewood Heights section which appeared before the Fulton county commission yesterday to oppose the opening of a liquor store at 1643 Jonesboro road. The residents entered such vigorous protests the commissioners refused to grant a license to Howard Smith. They approved nine applications.

Commission Grants First Licenses in Unincorporated Areas; Seven Applications Are Rejected.

Commission Grants First Licenses in Unincorporated Areas; Seven Applications Are Rejected.

Opening of nine retail liquor stores in Fulton county—the first in the unincorporated areas—was approved yesterday by the county commission, but officials of the planning commission said there was a possibility several of them might incur a delay because they were being erected on vacant lots not zoned for business.

Courtland Gilbert, secretary of planning commission and board of zoning appeals, warned that those operators who are building on vacant lots should determine immediately whether the area is zoned for business or residences. If the section is not properly zoned a hearing must be held before the board of zoning appeals.

Gilbert said it was evident that several of the applicants had not taken the zoning requirement into consideration.

Reject Seven.

Seventeen applications were presented to the commissioners but seven were rejected and one was held up until next meeting.

A large delegation from the Lakewood Heights section headed by Bob Giles appeared before the commission to oppose opening of a store at 1643 Jonesboro road. The application, submitted by Howard Smith, was rejected.

Another application, by Harry Thrash, for a store at Lakewood and Murphy avenue, was turned down at the suggestion of Commissioner Charles R. Adams who said it was near railroad yards and would prove a hazard to safety.

Application Held Up.

Grover Thomas, who brought court proceedings to force the county commission to issue liquor permits, first was denied a license to operate at 22 Roswell road, but this action was rescinded and the application was held up until next meeting.

Those receiving permits and their locations follow:

CHANGES REPORTED IN OLD AGE BILL

Plan for State Contribution of $10 Monthly May Be Removed.

WASHINGTON, July 19.—(AP)—A conference committee of the senate and house agreed tentatively today, one member reported, to eliminate from new social security legislation a requirement that states must contribute at least $10 a month for each needy aged person given public assistance.

As passed by the senate, the legislation provided that states must contribute at least that amount or receive nothing from the federal government for old age assistance. Twenty-eight states are now contributing less than $10.

These, according to Senator Byrnes, Democrat, South Carolina, are Oklahoma, Kansas, New Jersey, Rhode Island, Illinois, Missouri, Maryland, North Dakota, Nebraska, Michigan, Indiana, Vermont, Texas, Florida, West Virginia, Tennessee, New Mexico, Delaware, Louisiana, Virginia, Alabama, North Carolina, Georgia, Kentucky, South Carolina, Mississippi, Arkansas and Iowa.

The conference committee is seeking to adjust differences between house and senate versions of the bill. The payments for old age assistance are distinct from the old age insurance system, under which retired workers will receive pensions for which their wages have been taxed.

'Suicide' Efforts of Rare Stars Described by Harvard Astronomer

Bodies Swell But Just Miss Bursting and Light Fluctuates in Intensity With Movements Over 50-Day Period.

By the North American Newspaper Alliance.

PARIS, July 19.—Stars which spend countless millions in futile efforts to kill themselves in bursts of glory were described before the international astrophysical conference here today by Dr. Sergei Gaposchkin, Harvard University astronomer.

These stars, only recently known, are the so-called S. S. Cygni stars, named for a typical example in the near-by constellation of the swan in the northern sky. Their light fluctuates from bright to dim and back in about 50 days.

The Harvard astronomer has been making intensive studies of the spectra of these stars and finds that the fluctuations can be interpreted as due to the fact that they puff up like balloons, subside, and then remain quiet for a time while gathering strength to puff up again. No other variable stars behave in this fashion.

Lights That Fall.

These S. S. Cygni stars, Dr. Gaposchkin said, can now be considered as "lights that fall." They cannot make the grade of bursting the bonds of gravity. All they can do is rest up and try again.

These stars, Dr. Gaposchkin said, are about as big as the earth, but have as much mass and twice as much heat as the sun.

They seem destined to go on attempting to commit suicide throughout eternity. At the same time, Dr. Cecilia Payne-Gaposchkin, his wife, reported researches at the Harvard observatory which show that the so-called Super-Novae in the external galaxies—stars which explode with a brilliance as great as a billion times that of the sun—actually are relatively cool.

Twice Sun's Temperature.

Their external temperatures, she said, are not more than twice that of the sun, ranging around 15,000

WOMAN, 73, KILLED WHEN HIT BY AUTO

Driver Named on Charge of Involuntary Manslaughter in Mishap.

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION.

CARROLLTON, Ga., July 19.—Mrs. R. L. Gillespie, 73, died in a Carrollton hospital today of injuries received when she was struck down by an automobile on the highway in front of West Georgia College, on the outskirts of the city.

Sheriff B. B. Kilgore said the husband of the dead woman had sworn out a warrant charging involuntary manslaughter to J. T. Walker, of Route 3, Carrollton, alleged to have been the driver of the car. The sheriff said no arrest would be made until tomorrow morning.

Mrs. Gillespie was believed to have been crossing the highway and to have failed to see the approaching car.

She is survived by her husband; four sons, J. T., H. C. and C. A. Gillespie, of Carrollton, and J. W. Gillespie, of Chula, and five daughters, Mrs. J. O. Vines, Mrs. H. V. Ballard, Mrs. J. H. Shirley, Mrs. M. A. Hardin and Miss Vera Gillespie, all of Carrollton.

Rites will be held at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon in Salem Methodist church, 12 miles west of here, the Rev. Charles Matthews officiating. Burial will be in the churchyard.

'MODEL PRISONER' RETURNED TO CELL

Four States Seek Custody of Jack Russell on Murder, Kidnap Charges.

McALESTER, Okla., July 19.—(AP)—Jack Russell, the "model prisoner" who once enjoyed a measure of freedom in the state penitentiary, brooded in solitary confinement tonight over the impulse which turned him overnight into a hunted desperado.

"Nobody but a crazy man would have done what I did," the rangy convict declared to Warden Jess Dunn. "But now I'm as calm as a baby after a good night's sleep."

Dunn returned the 39-year-old fugitive here from Ozark, Ark., where he was captured yesterday.

At the gates Russell saw R. E. Brown, McAlester photographer, who was kidnaped at the start of his mad flight eight days ago. Russell waved a cheery greeting, saying he was "glad I didn't harm you."

A Muskogee, United States District Attorney C. A. Summer said federal authorities would take no action against Russell until a grand jury convenes there September 11.

Russell is charged at Muskogee with violation of the Lindbergh kidnaping law in connection with Brown's abduction.

Wisconsin, Illinois, Missouri and Kansas authorities also were reported seeking custody of Russell on kidnaping, murder and armed robbery charges.

Wonderful How Calomel's Nauseous Calomel Compound Tablet Makes You Feel So Fine the Next Morning.

The old-time calomel was the doctor's favorite remedy for biliousness or so-called "Torpid Liver," so prevalent in hot weather, but it had some serious drawbacks from the standpoint of the patient. The nauseating and sickening effects and the necessity to follow it with a dose of Epsom salts made many of us hate to take it. Now you can really enjoy your calomel, for Calomel's make calomel-taking a pleasure. They give you the combined effects of calomel and salts without the disagreeable sensations.

When you feel grouch and bilious, take one or two Calomel's at bedtime with a glass of water or sweet milk. Next morning your system feels clean and refreshed, your head is clear, your spirit is bright, and you are feeling fine with a hearty appetite for breakfast. Eat what you wish and go about your work or pleasure.

Genie Calomel's are sold only in checker-board (black and white) packages bearing the trade mark "Calomel's." Avoid imitations. Family package only twenty-five cents; trial package ten cents at your dealer's. (Adv.)

4 FULTON GROUPS ASK MORE RELIEF

municipal officials and the commissioners grew spirited at times and drew from Commissioner I. Gloer Hailey the charge that a subversive movement was under way to discredit the county commission.

The commissioners told the delegations that the grand jury had set two and one-fourth mills as the amount of taxes that could be levied for relief and that only this amount was available.

"Is organized society going to allow our people to starve?" Parham wanted to know. "Is there no way we can get larger appropriations?"

"Have you any suggestions?" Hailey asked.

Urges Expenses Cut.

"Yes," Parham replied. "Cut down on the expenses at this courthouse and the grand jury will give you more for relief."

Commissioner Chastain jumped up to explain the average salary for every courthouse employee is only $160 while that for industry is $158. He said he realized the county government was not as efficient as it should be but that he had never seen a government that was.

Livesey told the commission the two and one-fourth mill levy collected approximately $11,000 from the East Point section but that the municipality received only $1,274 of this amount for relief. Commissioners pointed out the reason for this discrepancy was the fact that many other charities such as the hospitals had to be taken care of.

Cities Overhead.

It was further pointed out that the overhead cost of operating the welfare department was more than $22,000 per month, and that when this amount was deducted from the $30,000 available only about $7,000 was left for actual relief.

Hailey said the only way to get more money for relief was to levy more taxes. "You can't eat your cake and have it too," he asserted.

"It seems to me," Hailey said, "that some people are trying to make it appear that the county commission is not interested in the relief situation in this county. I want to make it clear to the public that the administration of relief is in the hands of the welfare board and not the county commission. If the relief rolls were purged of all those persons who are able to work there would be a larger amount for the needy."

Livesey asked the commissioners if it was right to make a $25,000 appropriation for expansion of the airport when persons were starving.

Chastain explained that the county had to carry on a balanced program—that the courts must be kept going, roads must be built and other functions of the government cared for as well as relief.

EX-GEORGIAN HEADS KANSAS CITY POLICE

FBI Methods of Crime Fighting Promised by Lear B. Reed.

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION.

KANSAS CITY, July 19.—Georgia-born, FBI-trained Lear B. Reed, appointed Kansas City police chief last week following Governor Lloyd C. Stark's successful effort to wrest the police department from the control of now-imprisoned Boss Tom Pendergast today declared that "efficiency" will be the watchword of his department in its drive on crime.

Reed, a native of Athens, Ga., was appointed by the state-controlled board of police commissioners.

"Nothing else will count in this department," he declared today, "nothing else, from here on, but efficiency. The FBI trained me, and I know its systems. A police department is different, but this department is going to follow many of the things the FBI follows. The so-called lid has been on this town since January, and it's going to stay on."

Chief Reed is a son of a Baptist minister, and his mother was a descendant of Major John R. Steele, who fought for the Confederacy. He attended Richmond and Georgetown Universities, obtaining his law degree at the latter institution.

He served 14 years as an agent of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, before resigning to become police chief here.

He is married and has a nine-year-old son and a 13-year-old daughter.

MUNITIONS BOARD LISTS WAR EXPORT

Only One-Fourth of French Plane Orders Filled; U. S. Sales Booming.

WASHINGTON, July 19.—(AP)—The National Munitions Control Board revealed today in the report that France has been a to obtain delivery thus far only 25 per cent of the warplane she ordered in the United States.

Great Britain on the other hand has had delivery on virtually all the orders placed so far.

The board disclosed that France has obtained arms export licenses in the last six months totaling $36,242,250, but in the same time actually has obtained from the country only $9,187,557 worth of war materials.

These sums are made up almost entirely of airplanes.

The board showed that Great Britain obtained export licenses totaling $14,315,785, and actually got war goods worth $14,648,1 by making some use of licenses obtained last year.

France's licenses in June formed the largest total the board has ever issued in one month for a country—$15,246,310.

The half year report indicated the United States is doing a booming business in armaments—the six months total for licenses being $72,112,319. This would bring the total for the year, at the same rate, to nearly $150,000,000.

Canada was the second largest buyer in June, taking $630,900 worth of war equipment, most of it airplanes.

Colombia obtained licenses worth $427,679, also mostly for airplanes.

Plan for State Contribution of $10 Monthly May Be Removed.

WASHINGTON, July 19.—(AP)—A conference committee of the senate and house agreed tentatively today, one member reported, to eliminate from new social security legislation a requirement that states must contribute at least $10 a month for each needy aged person given public assistance.

As passed by the senate, the legislation provided that states must contribute at least that amount or receive nothing from the federal government for old age assistance. Twenty-eight states are now contributing less than $10.

These, according to Senator Byrnes, Democrat, South Carolina, are Oklahoma, Kansas, New Jersey, Rhode Island, Illinois, Missouri, Maryland, North Dakota, Nebraska, Michigan, Indiana, Vermont, Texas, Florida, West Virginia, Tennessee, New Mexico, Delaware, Louisiana, Virginia, Alabama, North Carolina, Georgia, Kentucky, South Carolina, Mississippi, Arkansas and Iowa.

The conference committee is seeking to adjust differences between house and senate versions of the bill. The payments for old age assistance are distinct from the old age insurance system, under which retired workers will receive pensions for which their wages have been taxed.

ARIETTA ROAD COMPLETION SEEN

Plans on Hand; Finish of Highway Expected by July of 1940.

Completion of the new Atlanta-Atlanta highway before July 1 next year was seen yesterday by Chairman W. L. Miller, of the highway board, informed Cobb County Commissioner Charles and that funds for the work had been allocated under the 1939-40 program.

The new highway is a double highway which connects North Side drive with United States Route 41 near Kennesaw and when completed will carry through traffic to the east of Marietta and provide a shorter and speedier route from north Georgia into Atlanta. Commissioner Herman H. Watson, representing north Georgia on the highway board, said $300,000 for expenditure on the highway had been set up. This will complete that section between the Chattahoochee river and Marietta. A further allocation of nearly $300,000 will be needed to extend the paving to Kennesaw. Grading of the road already has been completed.

MASS SLAYER'S 5-DAY DEATH STAY EXPIRES

A five-day respite granted Marion Hunter, Savannah negro mass slayer, expired yesterday but 10 days must elapse before he can be resented to electrocution. A request to extend the respite was declined by Governor Rivers. The State Parole Board said there was no petition before it for a hearing.

300 Injuries Have Been Averted Here

City Safety Record Shows Estimated $80,000 Is Saved in Doctors' Bills, Time, Damage, Etc.

Somewhere in Atlanta today there are 300 persons who have not been injured in traffic accidents during the first 30 weeks of this year. Last year it would have been different, for they would have spent an estimated $80,000 on doctors' bills, loss of time, and property damage.

For Atlanta is reducing injuries at the rate of 40 per cent, showing this year 300 fewer persons hurt in automobile mishaps than last year's staggering average of four per day.

ord is just as envious as the 53 consecutive days which have passed without a fatality. "It's a fine thing to save a life," Captain Malcom says, "but we are saving 300 persons from a hospital bed, shackled there by broken bones or torn bodies."

Important Item. To traffic experts that's an important item not only because of the suffering it saves but also from a financial point of view. The average injury, it has been found, costs about $275. Multiply that by those 300 who haven't been hurt these last 200 days and it amounts to a sizeable sum.

"Automobile mechanics tell me," says Captain Malcom, "that their business has fallen off this year. It may be bad news to them, but it sounds good to me. That means automobile accidents aren't as serious as in previous years. Today a scratched fender is replacing a crushed engine. "And," he points out, "a scratched fender won't send the driver to the hospital. That kind of mishap won't boost the fatality number."

A glance at the little gray book in the traffic department will show that something is happening here in Atlanta. The first 200 days of 1937 saw 27 dead and 863 injured. In 1938 the death toll remained the same. Injuries decreased but 4 per cent.

Down to 19. This year, however, fatalities are down to 19, a decrease of 30 per cent. And injuries sustained in city traffic accidents total 525, off 40 per cent. Comparative records with other cities show Atlanta near the top in reductions. Captain Malcom attributes it to a growing "traffic consciousness."

He puts it this way: "People aren't hurrying home and winding up in the hospital instead. They're taking their time, obeying the traffic laws and eventually eating in a dining room instead of off a hospital tray."

"We're shooting for 100 days without a death and injuries cut by 50 per cent. When we get that, I'll think up another low figure to go after."

Over 500 Children To Enter Competition Tonight.

Atlanta children who have participated this summer in the supervised entertainment at more than 20 playgrounds in the city will enter their magic lanterns in the playground lantern fete at the fishing lake in Piedmont park at 8:15 o'clock tonight.

Between 500 and 1,000 children will enter their lanterns in the contest, at which music will be furnished by the Atlanta federal orchestra under the direction of Walter Sheets.

There will be awards for all who participate, and for the boy and the girl with the best lanterns there will be additional prizes. Recognition will be made for the smallest lantern with a candle that burns satisfactorily for one minute, the prettiest lantern, the most unique and best illustrated theme with a lantern and costume.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backaches quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning shows there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. An excess of acids or poisons in your blood, when due to functional kidney disorder, may be the cause of nagging backaches, rheumatic pain, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headache and dizziness. Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 16 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

ATLANTA, GA., JULY 20, 1939.

WPA in Georgia

With four or five WPA supervisory employees discharged for diversion of labor, paid for by the organization, to private employment, and with the announcement congressional investigators are now in this state looking into the affairs of the WPA in Georgia, local interest in the great "emergency" organization for work relief is intensified.

The affair in the Columbus area may, perhaps, be dismissed as a tempest in a teapot. According to all available information this incident may be regarded as closed, to all intents and purposes at least, with the dismissal of those officials responsible.

There are other features of WPA operation in Georgia, however, of more serious aspect, and it is to be hoped the investigators now at work will uncover the entire picture and, when it is discovered, make it publicly known to the smallest detail.

Every confidence is reposed in the ability and integrity of Miss Gay B. Shepperson, Georgia WPA administrator. She is a woman of remarkable executive capacity and no one familiar with her personality or her record doubts for a moment either her integrity or her fitness for her task.

One mistake made, however, in this state as in others, has been the constant aura of secrecy which has been maintained regarding WPA administrative affairs. Much of the criticism of the WPA, true or false, springs from this same secrecy and, in the final analysis, those to blame for the bad name given the organization in much general gossip, are the administrators who have tried to operate as autocrats and who have steadfastly refused to take the public into their confidence.

An example in point is the present dispute raging in Bartow county. It is charged some of those on the Bartow roster of the WPA should not be there; that they are either able to support themselves without any form of public relief, or could easily secure work in private employment if they would.

The grand jury has demanded a copy of the county WPA pay roll and the local WPA officer has been charged in contempt of court for refusing to supply this list.

There is no conceivable reason to withhold the list that is not outweighed by the need for publicity. Charges have been made against the WPA in that county. If they are false they can quickly and easily be refuted by the pay roll records. The refusal to furnish these records carries almost tacit corroboration of the charges made.

It is announced that, in efforts to reduce overhead costs, 50 administrative employees of the WPA in Georgia have been dismissed and others are scheduled to go. Yet the names and positions of those discharged are refused.

It is absurd to attribute consideration for the feelings of employees as sufficient reason for such secrecy. No man who has honestly taken and held a WPA job has any cause for shame. And if such a job has been held dishonestly, there is no justification for protecting a chiseler.

When the state government, in the interest of economy, discharged many of its employees a full list was published in the papers. And none of those discharged suffered because of that publication.

So long as the WPA clings to this illogical practice of autocratic secrecy, just so long will stories of WPA inefficiency, graft and mismanagement be common gossip on the streets and at the country crossroads of the nation. Regardless of truth or falsity of such stories, only the WPA itself is to blame for their prevalence.

The McNutt appointment continues to confound the seers. No one seems to know if it was intended to bury the Indiana Caesar or to praise him.

A rumor that Hitler is guided by five astrologers is confusing. We understood all horoscopes in the Reich are now based on the movements of Adolf.

Under a new code of their own making, the broadcasters will do something about kid programs. No more will the hero be left hanging to the cliff, like Europe in the five-star final.

A month has passed since the June grads threw off the haze of student days, but the world's problems are still what they were.

Women's Independence

Yesterday marked the ninety-first anniversary of the first women's rights convention, a day which the women of America would now have set aside as a "women's independence day" and a legal holiday.

July 19, to the ardent feminists of today, is termed the anniversary of a day which marks "the very beginning, practically in the whole world, of the effort to free women from their ancient bondage."

To the younger generations of today, it is difficult to envisage a day in which women did not have the freedom which permits their full participation in the world in which we live. The progress of independence for women has kept pace with the material growth of the United States and with the advance in public education, and it is in that one measure the value of women's participation in modern life.

It will be noted that in periods of depression there is a great tendency, even among women, to restrict anew the liberties of the female of the species. It finds its manifestations in laws seeking to prevent married women from working. It was evidenced in the depression by the federal regulation barring the employment of both members of a household in the government service. Happily, largely through the vigilance of organized women's groups, the fight to prevent the shackling of women has been so far successful.

But only as women become more deeply interested in clean government, in less expensive government and in national prosperity will they be able to retain their independence. In other countries, in which women did not zealously guard and exercise these rights and duties, they now are relegated to the kitchens and the function of bearing cannon fodder.

Women's independence day should be observed every day, and should take the form of a greater interest in those things which make possible that independence.

Hot Dog!

A lively controversy is raging around a question of vital concern to millions of Americans. The question is: Is the hamburger supplanting the hot dog? Or is the hot dog figuratively grinding the hamburger to—well, hamburger?

The question first hit the front pages when a champion of the hamburger declared at a food trade gathering that this product was sweeping the country. He argued that the hamburger was seen—and eaten—in the best places as well as the more humble gastronomical emporiums. He pooh-poohed the hot dog, saying in effect it might as well droop its tail between its legs and scurry off to the dog house of oblivion.

Quite naturally, these were fighting words to the hot doggers. And the battle was on. First came the King and Queen of England, and that famous Hyde Park picnic, when the hot dog—not the hamburger—was right royally eaten by a royal couple. Partisans of the hot dog noted this fact with glee and got in a good round in the verbal battle. Then came the irrepressible Grover Whalen, great wahoo of the New York World's Fair, with facts and figures additionally advantageous to the hot doggers. Brother Whalen, after much careful calculating in the shadow of the trylon and persphere, announced the results of his figuring. From the opening date of the fair, April 30, until recently, he found that more than 10,000,000 fair visitors had consumed a grand total of more than two million and a quarter hot dogs. This, compared with consumption of more than a million and a half hamburgers. Which added more joy to the hot dog camp.

Thus, at the moment, it seems the dog is "rolling" way out in front. In the final analysis, however, the average American would rather not join in the controversy. He prefers a hot dog in one hand and a hamburger in the other—and his mouth busy with more important things than talk.

Former Congressman O'Connor is urging a "sensible party" for the 1940 campaign. Cooler heads, though, feel that the crisis is no time for innovations.

Editorial of the Day

NEUTRALITY'S FIASCO

(From The Baltimore Sun.)

The senate committee on foreign relations made itself and the country ridiculous in its 12-to-11 vote on Tuesday to postpone all neutrality legislation until the next session of congress. And the country is not only made ridiculous along with the committee. It is made weak in a time of great danger.

The situation is made the worse because, in refusing further consideration of neutrality until the next session and in relying upon the truncated neutrality law now on the books, the committee on foreign relations proposes to leave the government without any effective control over the movement of American ships or American citizens in combat areas. To the freedom to sell all the wheat and cotton, oil and iron and similar products that we can get to the seaboard and the belligerents can buy, will be left the freedom to put these commodities into American ships, manned by American crews, and to send them wherever the war market demands. Thus, to all the dangers of economic involvement, about which isolationists talk, will be added the war-making dangers of destruction of American ships and American lives.

If the isolationists are going to be isolationists, they ought to find somewhere a little intellectual honesty and a little moral courage. They ought, first, to think their problem through with some sincerity. They ought to make themselves see that it is cruel mockery of the desire of our people to keep out of another war when legislators profess to be guarding against entanglements by embargoing the production and sale of a relatively small amount of arms and munitions, while they promote the sale of all manner of other commodities.

Nobody in the whole group of them will stand up and plainly tell the people what is involved in actual isolation. Nobody in the whole group will tell the people what price is to be paid in economic dislocation and in political submission. It is easy enough to denounce munition makers. The isolationists will not denounce wheat and cotton farmers who wish to continue to trade in the world markets. Nor will the isolationists frankly tell the American people of the national humiliation that may be expected if we withdraw from the world and retreat to our own shores, a policy utterly inconsistent with the genius of a dynamic nation like this one.

THE CAPITAL PARADE FAIR ENOUGH

By JOSEPH ALSOP AND ROBERT KINTNER.

INEPTITUDE OF CONGRESS WASHINGTON, July 19.—Since the senate action on the neutrality act, taken in Germany as an open invitation to aggression, it may not be necessary to point out the ineptitude of congress in dealing with foreign affairs. Yet one more illustration of the need for executive discretion in the foreign field will not come amiss.

The best illustration imaginable is the foreign silver buying program, under which this country is now idiotically collecting most of the silver bullion in the world in a hole in the ground near West Point. This program's original object was to use the taxpayers' money to force the world silver price up to $1.29 an ounce, thus greatly benefiting the silver producers of Nevada, Montana and other underpopulated states which are overrepresented in the senate. After a brief effort at obedience, the congressional command was fortunately ignored by Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr.

Instead of trying to force the world silver price continuously upward, he merely pegged it in the neighborhood of 43 cents an ounce. Even at that, although the world annually produces only 200,000,000 ounces of silver, 350,000,000 ounces a year have poured into the United States. We have taken all the silver that was mined, and everyone else's dented teapots and ancient silver-backed brushes and into the bargain. As there is no conceivable use to which the bullion, teapots and hairbrushes may be put, the foreign silver buying program has simply turned to be a peculiarly costly and clumsy way of paying subsidies to other nations. This is quite frankly admitted at the Treasury by everyone from Secretary Morgenthau down.

SPAIN, CHINA, MEXICO There were times when the President and Secretary Morgenthau were glad to be able to use silver buying as a form of subsidy payment. For example, the purchases of silver from the Spanish Loyalist government supported the cause of democracy in that tragic nation for a considerable period. The much larger purchases from the Chinese government supplied the forces of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek with much-needed foreign exchange, with which to buy arms to fight the Japanese invaders.

Now, however, there is only one nation in which this silver purchasing subsidy can do any real good. That nation is Mexico. Both at the State Department and the Treasury, Mexico is nervously watched, for the extreme left and extreme right are both dangerously active there. If Mexican internal affairs take a real turn for the worse, a civil war on the Spanish pattern is fairly likely. The money derived from our yearly purchase of 80,000,000 ounces of Mexican silver has proved an important stabilizing agent in the Mexican economy. And avoiding trouble to the southward has been cheap at the price.

Yet it would be a great deal cheaper and more businesslike to subsidize Mexico with direct loans. Such problems as the oil expropriation would be far more manageable. German, Italian and Japanese penetration in Mexico, now seriously threatening, could be stopped at once. The benefits would be greater to the Mexicans themselves.

AND JAPAN Meanwhile the silver buying program also forces the Treasury to take several million ounces of Japanese silver, much of it stolen from China.

At this very moment, the Japanese are engaged in an effort to destroy the foreign concessions in China. The effort, which started with the famous Tientsin incident, is partly motivated by a desire to get at the Chinese valuables now safely stored in the foreign concessions. In the British concession at Tientsin alone there is $35,000,000 worth of Chinese silver, and in other concessions at Shanghai, the value of the silver is set at nearly $400,000,000. If the Japanese can get their hands on the concessions, the banks will certainly be looted of their silver, as well as of the uncounted millions in gold, jewelry, jades and the like which the unfortunate Chinese have also deposited. A large part of the silver will be sold in this country. And we shall find ourselves in the charming position of paying the Japanese for an action enormously damaging to our own interests.

All things considered, it is a miracle we have got anything at all out of our foreign silver purchases. A bill is now before congress to put a stop to them, which the Treasury would ardently support if it were not for Mexico. But how much simpler it would be to let the experts of the government's executive branch deal directly with the Mexican situation, the Japanese situation, and the many others of the same sort.

"Just Another Wise Guy."

One of the most enjoyable news stories that has appeared in the public prints for a long time was that account, on the front page of The Constitution of Monday last of the arrest of Fritz Kuhn, at Webster, Mass.

"Der Fuehrer of America," the leader of the German-American Bund, the agent over here for the Nazis in Germany, the man who, if he could, would execute an "anschluss" in the United States and make us all toss up the right hand everytime we met and substitute "Heil Hitler," for "Howdy," was tossed into the Webster town lock-up for "being drunk, swearing and giving a policeman the Bronx cheer."

Said Police Chief Templeman, of Webster: "He was just another wise guy who thought this was a hick town and that he could stage one of them beer hall putsch things and be the boss."

So Fuehrer Kuhn lay in the town lock-up, together with a trio of village boys who'd been too noisy in their week-end celebration, until some of his pals could pool all the odd change in their pants pockets to make up the required bail.

When Fuehrer Kuhn haughtily objected to arrest, saying "You can't do this to me! Do you know who am I?" Chief Templeman answered, "Buddy, I don't care who you are, you're going to get a cell in the lock-up and like it."

And Chief Templeman knew who he was, all the time! Don't you love it?

In America,
Not in New York.

Of course, the clerk to the story is the fact that Mister Kuhn had made himself obnoxious in a typical American town. Not in New York. In such a place as Webster, Mass., they don't have much sympathy for the folks who make up the ideals that have made America the home of human liberty. They won't get worked up about it. Oh, no. It's rather funny, in fact. Toss the wise guy in the town lock-up where he belongs, with the rest of the drunks and the nuts and the undesirables.

It doesn't matter how much ruckus a fellow like Fritz Kuhn can raise in that city of polyglot population, New York. He can even strut his silly way through Bund camps, here and there, where silly dupes "cheer" him to his vain desire. He can wear any flossy uniform he likes—if he pays for it—and strew medals over his chest until he jingles like a junk man's wagon. In the Bund camps,

But when he tries his funny stuff in the real America—say in Webster, Mass., or Griffin, Ga., or Opelika, Ala., or in any similar towns in south or east or west or north of these United States, he'll find a different reception.

Bronx Cheers.

Kuhn, it is reported, added the final affront to the forbearing Webster police when he sounded that irritating noise known as a "Bronx cheer," after Chief Templeman dealt with extreme tolerance, given permission for him to leave the scene of earlier errors, in his own car. They weren't going to lock him up with the drunks and disorderlies prior to that final insult. But the Bronx cheer was the climax. Kuhn went to the lockup after that.

And did it ever occur to you that when the Bund held that meeting, a few months ago, in Madison Square Garden, New York, they were figuratively, giving a Bronx cheer to all that means America? To the flag which they desecrated by draping it behind their speakers' stand, to the heroes of American history, including Washington, to whom they gave lip service? To every decent man and woman in this country who believes in the freedom of the individual and in the free, frank democratic way of doing things?

That meeting was, in actual fact, nothing but a Bronx cheer blurted in the face of all America. But, because of America's decency, her belief that the freedom of assembly and the freedom of speech are champions really mean something, the New York Bund meeting was guarded by New York police and those who attended were saved from the righteous indignation of onlookers by New York police. Rightfully so. The police job proper for American authorities.

But that was the Bronx cheer sounded in New York.

In Webster a Bronx cheer for any symbol of America—even a police officer—brings the lockup.

And I'm glad, I say thank God for the real America, for such places as Webster, Mass. and its lockup, and for Americans like Chief Templeman.

"Just another wise guy who gives America the razzberry." That's Kuhn.

Twenty-five Years Ago Today.

From the news columns of Monday, July 20, 1914:

"The bill of Senator Searcy, prohibiting the sale of tobacco, cigarettes or cigarette papers in Georgia was reported favorably by substitute by the general judiciary committee of the senate, with only two dissenting votes."

And Fifty Years Ago.

From the news columns of Saturday, July 20, 1889:

"Mr. Thornton, the banker, has presented the Grant park with a full-rigged two-masted schooner, which will be placed upon Lake Abana."

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH MCGILL.

Ground Rules NEW YORK, July 19.—If Senator Joe Guffey, of Pennsylvania, were half the American that he thinks he is he would know the ground rules of the American national game of craps.

If he knew these rules he would know that a cry of "no dice" is invalid if it is raised after the cubes have stopped bouncing. All Americans deserving of the name know that if it is desired for any reason to protest the roll the objector must interfere with the blocks at once and enter his objection on the instant in clear, ringing tones. He may not object in the manner in which they were tossed out or he may wish to inspect the spots to assure himself that no sleight of hand has been practiced to introduce unorthodox tools. He has his privilege, and the phrase "no dice," uttered in time, may save him from grievous loss. But he must not attempt to nullify a throw which was made some time before, the results of which have become a minute drop of history in the stream of human progress.

This being so, any American versed in the rules, etiquette and traditions of the national game will readily agree, Mr. Guffey was guilty of a flagrant act of un-Americanism when he recently yelled "no dice" as to President Roosevelt's two terms in office. He said the first term was no dice because it was vetoed by the supreme court. The second term, he said, was stolen by Tories and political ingrates.

What Would Have Happened Now, as to the first term, he may congratulate himself that he committed this breach in the game of politics and not in the game of craps. Were he to have waited thus long, even relatively, to enter a protest in a crap game Senator Guffey would have been tagged with a chair leg or pool cue and tossed down the stairs, and public opinion would have held that it served the senator right.

He was leaning over the table, so to speak, breathing hard and oozing dew onto the board when the thing happened, and he made no complaint at the time, unless you count his speech attempting to seduce the senator right.

Of the human race, several colleagues who had opposed the plan to pack the supreme court. If you do count that, you may remind yourself that Senator Burt Wheeler, in fact, did rear back and conk him with a cast iron gobsnook and the public opinion disallowed Mr. Guffey's protest.

As to the second term, it might be agreed that the dice have not stopped rolling and that Senator Guffey is still within the statute of limitations by a split second. But it may be argued to the contrary that by now the dice definitely are not in action any more but just teetering a little and show spots which, to Senator Guffey's own eyes, distinctly indicate a final reading of ace-deuce. The read of the dice called "no dice" was back in the early days of the second term, when it was impossible to foresee what numbers would come up.

Acquired Senator Guffey once $406,000 acquired, perhaps inadvertently, $406,000 of interest on public funds while serving his country as a dollar-a-year man in the office of the Alien Property Custodian and had to kick it back. He is a New Dealer of the same general type as Frank Hague and Ed Kelly, of Chicago. Prosperous, fortunate men of large inscrutable affairs and wealth, the patriots have in common a strong, profitable enthusiasm for the administration but a personal reserve which deters them from sharing poverty with the ill-used third. They also have a common experience of regrettable misunderstandings with the treasury of the nation which they serve, such being the ingratitude of republics.

The Senator goes so far as to say that an upheaval will destroy big business and politicians if his claim of "no dice" for President Roosevelt is disallowed. He seems to forget, however, that his own man has held the dice for some time and that he has been anything wrong with the roll or the tools that would be something for his man, not the opposition, to explain.

The Senator, were he up in his Americanism, would know, too, among those who play the national game the phrase "no dice" is used to describe a type of person who is neither hated nor respected. Of such a person it is said that he is just no dice. Senator Guffey might try that one on for size.

Killed by Kite.

In Garsington, England, flying a kite for his nephew, Robert Parsler, 38, was killed instantly when the metal-cord string of the kite caught an overhead high-tension wire.

Battled Their Police.

A pitched battle between police and villagers near Panipat, India, resulted in severe injuries to two villagers. Firearms were used in the fray, and two Muslims were arrested as leaders.

YOUTH GETS JOBS Now cometh Mr. Aubrey Williams, head of the National Youth Administration with a statement that as far as employment is concerned the future for youth is the brightest since 1929.

He estimates that of the 12,000,000 unemployed "perhaps 4,000,000 to 5,000,000 are young people still out of industry and trying to get in." And he adds "these kids are a pushing and striving lot and it's hard to keep them down. These kids have guts and stamina and there's something hopeful for the future."

With that as a sort of preface, he says something more important. He said that the demand from business and industry today was for workers with vocational and professional training.

"There still is opportunity for American youth despite the fact it has grown up in one of the worst periods in the past 40 to 50 years," he said.

The statement followed a survey made by NYA. It revealed that all but 15 per cent of those leaving grade school in 1929 found jobs "sooner or later" and that 73 per cent of those from the classes of 1933 did the same.

This, coming from the man who has at hand all the statistics compiled on youth activities in the past six years, is one of the most encouraging notes of the year. Coming as it does at a time when there is so much talk of "lack of opportunity" and of "the lost generation," it is encouraging to find the administrative experts believe that American youth is running true to form. It is out hustling for a job and those with capabilities get one "sooner or later."

A GEORGIA SURVEY The NYA made such a survey recently in Savannah. It showed that of the 1935 high school graduates not gainfully employed the great majority were girls, some of whom did not need to work; some who helped at home and some who simply were not interested in work. The percentage of 1935 graduates not "gainfully employed" in 1936 was 58.7. By 1939 it had decreased to 7 per cent.

It is entirely probable that this 7 per cent is for the most part composed of incompetents, those who do not want work and girls who are staying at home waiting for marriage to come along. The survey showed the Savannah high school graduates of 1935 not gainfully employed in 1938 to be 13.6. The large proportion of those not employed are females.

The survey finds that one year from date of graduation is not sufficient time to make a survey which means anything. The time for adjustment has not been adequate.

A survey of the negro graduates was not adequate owing to the failure of the schools to supply complete lists. It was interesting to note that 50 per cent of the graduating class of the negro high schools in 1937 was attending college.

At any rate the survey made in Savannah indicates that Georgia's average is about the national average; that there is job opportunity; that it requires perhaps more determined and longer period of effort than in the years previous to 1929.

THE VOCATIONAL ANGLE Vocational and professional education is not, of course, a royal road to a job. Yet it is significant that Aubrey Williams said the national survey had determined there was more demand for the trained boy or girl.

Last week I sat at lunch with a number of businessmen. One of them was in charge of employment.

"I feel terribly sorry for many of them who came for jobs," he said. "Getting a job is terribly important to them. The ones who most need a job usually are the ones who make the poorest interview. They are so concerned they do not really show themselves. Only a few have had any sort of training in how to present their best front. They do not know how to talk. They have not had any experience in the work they seek. Some days I wonder how many potentially good employees we pass over because they cannot present themselves with a story of what they believe they can do. I wish some high school would teach fundamentals of salesmanship and of personal relationships."

It becomes more and more apparent that an aimless preparation for college is not enough when less than 17 per cent go to college. It might be well to think about training the girls who are to work in department stores, in drug stores and in other businesses, something of the work they will be called upon to do.

The filling station operators actually have found it necessary to open a school of their own to train the help they wish to hire.

Too many people seeking jobs find themselves up against the old vicious circle—to get a job they must have experience. To get experience, they must get a job.

The Doctor's Wisdom Avails Nothing If the Patient Thinks He Knows Better

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

You never feel so helpless or so exasperated by human stubbornness and folly as when you endeavor to give young people the benefit of your experience, and save them from the penalties you paid, only to have them disregard all warnings and deliberately invite shame and suffering.

Why do they act that way? Is it the Old Harry that is in us all, or is it the curious perversity that prompts us to touch a pointed surface with a doubting finger if a sign says the paint is fresh? Or is it that desire and greed overcome reason and doom us forever to play the fool in spite of warnings and history's evidence that folly will wreck us?

The dangers and stupidities that now threaten to ruin our country were foreseen by Washington. He had built a nation the hard way, and by hard experience had learned the wisdom to preserve it. His warnings to a nation of 3,000,000 people preserved it for a great destiny, but now we face the same dangers and his warnings are forgotten.

Read again the words he spoke concerning organized minorities, foreign entanglements, conflict between states and centralized power:

"All combinations and associations with the real design to direct, control, counteract or awe the regular deliberation and action of the constituted authorities are destructive. They put in place of the delegated will of the nation the will of a small but enterprising minority. They are likely to become potent engines by which cunning, ambitious and unprincipled men will be enabled to usurp for themselves the reins of government."

The great rule of conduct for us, in regard to foreign nations, is to have with them as little political connection as possible.

"Europe has a set of primary interests which to us have none, or a very remote relation. Hence she must be engaged in frequent controversies, the causes of which are essentially foreign to our concerns."

"Sympathy for the favorite nation facilitates the illusion of an imaginary common interest in cases where no real common interest exists, and betrays one into a participation in the quarrels and wars of the other

THIS MORNING

By JOHN TEMPLE GRAVES II.

"Am I mad that I should cherish
That which bears but bitter fruit?
I will pluck it from my bosom
Though my heart be at the root!"

The movie started something when they brought Sam Houston's much-mooted romance with Eliza Allen to attention again in "Man of Conquest," and made the chivalrous Houston a roughneck. From an article on the marriage written half a century ago for the Louisville Courier-Journal by Colonel Thomas Boyers, editor of a newspaper at Gallatin, Tenn., where the Allens lived, and a lifelong friend of the family. Colonel Boyers says that Eliza Allen loved someone else, that for weeks before her wedding to Sam Houston she was in a state of melancholy. After the wedding at the beautiful old Allen plantation in Gallatin "the governor took his bride to the capital, and there the honeymoon passed amid great festivities, the citizens of every rank vying in attention to the distinguished couple; never before had the executive mansion been so graced. After three months of what was to outward appearances a happy honeymoon the bride went home on a visit. The Governor followed his wife in a few days, and there at the house where they were married husband and wife parted forever. What passed no one knows, as the lips of both were ever after sealed on the subject. Governor Houston returned to Nashville and sent his resignation as Governor to his old comrade, General William Hall, speaker of the senate, who succeeded him. After resigning he went into the forest, and forsaking civilization, lived with his old friends, the Cherokee Indians. The nation was startled to learn that in a day the Governor of a flourishing commonwealth had been transformed into an Indian brave."

Eliza Allen Houston lived thereafter as a recluse in her family home at Gallatin. One day, years afterward, according to Colonel Boyers' story, while she was in "the garden of the manor house on the river bluff, the housemaid came and announced that a strange man was in the reception room asking to see her. On entering the room she saw at a glance that the stranger was Houston, artfully disguised..."

"He arose and made his old-time courtly salutation, which alone might have betrayed him to a person less shrewd than his wife. She requested him to be seated and did not let him suspect that his disguise was detected. He did not, during the interview, give any explanation of the object of his visit, but conversed in a commonplace way about common-place things, all the while gazing intently at her as if to fasten her features more surely in his memory. Then he arose, made another profound bow and passed out, going down to the river by a difficult passage in the high bluff. There he entered a canoe which had been tied by his own hand, paddled to the opposite bank, and disappeared in the forest. His presence in Tennessee was not then or afterwards known."

Colonel Boyers' informant, he says, was a lady who had been a bridesmaid at the wedding. He does not give her name. He reports a subsequent interview he himself had with Houston in Washington in 1853, nearly a quarter of a century after the wedding, in which Houston indicated from his manner and questions a continuing great devotion to his first wife.

Eliza Allen Houston finally obtained a divorce on the grounds of desertion. She was afterwards married to Dr. Elmore Douglas, of Gallatin. Whether he was the man she was said to have been in love with at the time of her marriage to Houston in 1829, Colonel Boyers does not attempt to discuss. She died in 1862 as the result of a fall through a trapdoor at the opera house, where her children were rehearsing for some private theatricals.

PAROLE SAVANNAH CONVICTED IN DEATH

J. Malcom Grant, of Savannah, convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment for killing Evelyn Grubbs in 1933, has been granted a parole, official records disclosed yesterday.

The parole order said Grant was in "very bad" physical condition and that clemency was recommended by prison physicians and wardens under whom he served, "also jurors and others."

GOOD MORNING

By LOUIE D. NEWTON.

THE ALLIANCE.

Continuing yesterday's discussion, let me mention, please, the names of the various committee chairmen for the Alliance. Where there are two names, except in a few instances, one is the chairman for the negroes and the other for the whites.

Frederick Patterson is chairman of finance. Glenn Dodson served in this very important chairmanship until his death, May 8, 1939. Mr. Patterson graciously stepped in and took Mr. Dodson's place, and is doing a grand job. P. L. Bardin, R. M. Mitchell and others are rendering great service under Mr. Patterson.

B. L. Bugg and B. J. Johnson have served as co-chairmen on housing, and what a fine job they have done! I wish space permitted the printing of all their associates. Edwin S. Preston, executive secretary of Shorter College, through his own generosity, and the co-operation of Shorter College, has given weeks of time as director of publicity, both the press and radio. And Mr. Preston joins me in thanks to the press and radio for their wonderful co-operation.

Wiley L. Moore and Earl Mann have served as co-chairmen of auditorium and stadium facilities. I dare not start into detail of their wonderful service. Walter Ward has done a grand job as chairman of transportation, as have his associates. Parks Warnock, as chairman of exhibits, had one of the toughest assignments, and he has come through with a smile and that is something.

Ryland Knight and D. D. Crawford have served as co-chairmen of pulpit supply, a most important service, as has been the work of Ellis A. Fuller and C. Nathaniel Ellis as co-chairmen of welcome. John A. White and C. D. Hubert are co-chairmen for the pageant, and W. A. Horne Jr. and G. W. Jordan for sightseeing. John D. Hoffman, Kemper Harrell and Charles A. Sheldon have planned and will direct the music.

W. Lee Cutts and J. T. Walker were co-chairmen on badges, as are W. A. Duncan and W. W. Weatherspool on registration. Chief M. A. Hornsby and Chief C. C. Styrone are co-chairmen on safety, and W. D. Barker and Frank Wilson on first aid. Troy D. Woodbury and Mrs. Ida Henderson are co-chairmen on young people, and Mesdames J. W. Awtry and Geneva Haugabrooks on plans for the women.

To each chairman and their respective associates, my heartiest and everlasting thanks.

MARION TALLEY GIVEN CUSTODY OF DAUGHTER

NEW YORK, July 19.—(P)—Marion Talley, former opera star, today was awarded the custody of her 4-year-old daughter for nine months of each year following a bitter custody suit in state supreme court.

Referee Richard P. Lydon recommended that the father, Adolph Eckstrom, have the child for three months.

Lydon's recommendation must be approved by Supreme Court Justice Alfred Frankenthaler before it becomes final.

MRS. GUY H. TUTTLE DIES IN LOS ANGELES

Mother of Atlanta Attorney Visited Here Often.

Mrs. Guy H. Tuttle, of Los Angeles, Cal., mother of Elbert P. Tuttle, well-known Atlanta attorney, died yesterday morning at her home after a brief illness.

Mrs. Tuttle had been a frequent visitor to Atlanta and had many friends here. She was at one time a member of the Peachtree Christian church. Surviving are her husband, Guy H. Tuttle, of Los Angeles, and another son, Malcolm H. Tuttle, of New York.

MAROONED FISHERMEN RESCUED FROM KEY

PENSACOLA, Fla., July 19.—(P)—Captain Christ Christensen reported today he had rescued 16 Mexican fishermen from Rene Cay in the Gulf of Mexico after the Mexican boat Alberto had exploded and burned. The marooned men, taken aboard by the Pensacola fishing smack Dolphin, were carried to Progreso, Mexico, where two of the men, badly burned, were treated. The fishermen, on the key from June 21 to June 28, lived on turtle eggs and shark meat until they were rescued.

Where is your "legal" residence?

STATE "A" YOUR ESTATE STATE "B"

If you are thinking of changing your legal residence, or if you think you have changed it, consult your attorney. Otherwise your estate may face serious complications.

In more than one instance recently, several states have claimed the right to tax estates left by persons who had residences and interests in those several states. In such cases, litigation and delay in settling the estate may prove costly.

Another danger is that if you establish legal residence in another state, and leave a will naming as executor a bank in the state where you formerly lived, that bank may not be permitted to serve as executor.

These and other possible consequences should have your serious consideration in the light of your attorney's advice, if you are considering a change of residence—especially if you have already taken what you consider the necessary steps to change it.

BAPTISTS TO HOLD MARCH OF NATIONS AT NOON SATURDAY

Will Parade From Auditorium to Ponce de Leon Park to Tunes of Five Bands and Vocal Group.

Plans for the gigantic "Parade of the Nations" which will mark the formal opening of the sixth congress of the Baptist World Alliance Saturday were released yesterday by Colonel A. G. Conoley, of the 309th cavalry, who has been designated marshal of the day.

Included in the colorful procession which moves away from the state capitol at noon Saturday, will be visiting messengers to the congress from nearly 70 nations.

Five Bands to Participate. Five bands and a vocal group will furnish music, with marching delegations and one car representing each Baptist church in the Atlanta area.

The marshal of the day and his staff and city and state dignitaries, along with officers of the alliance will head the procession, followed by a United States naval reserve battalion and a detachment of Boy Scouts.

Local Baptist organizations, detachments from the churches, civic organizations, representatives of the press, radio, schools and colleges will fall in line in one of the five divisions of the parade.

Will Get Key to City. Presentation of the key to the city will take place at the junction of Peachtree and Ponce de Leon avenue approximately at 1 o'clock with impressive ceremonies.

The group will then proceed to Ponce de Leon park where the colorful roll call of the nations is scheduled for 2 p. m.

Route of the parade is as follows: Form at Hunter and Washington streets and proceed via Hunter, Whitehall, Peachtree streets and Ponce de Leon avenue to Ponce de Leon park.

SLAYING OF FATHER IS HELD JUSTIFIABLE

DANIELSVILLE, Ill., July 19.—(AP)—A coroner's jury decided today the shotgun slaying of Andrew Heath by his 16-year-old daughter, who asserted he abused her, was "justifiable homicide."

Attorneys for the girl, Alta, held on a warrant charging murder, said they would seek a writ of habeas corpus to free her.

The girl was questioned at the inquest, but Police Lieutenant Leo Bireline testified she told him her father, a 39-year-old brickyard worker, "came home drunk and started abusing me" Saturday night and that she fired the gun after telling him:

"Well, daddy, this is what I said I was going to do."

then returns to his post in Washington.

"No political or military significance to my visit whatsoever," he spoke. "Purely a matter of courtesy."

When he returns to Washington, he will have left his card at army posts in every corps area, and completed his second long swing through the nation since his arrival here last September.

Meanwhile, the weather bureau, with a nice regard for people's feelings and the classic sense of the fitness of things, refused to say it will be cooler today. Instead, it will be "not quite so warm." Temperature extremes will be 72 and 94.

Yesterday's low was 77 degrees, recorded at 7 o'clock in the morning. By noon, the thermometer had risen to 90. At 3 o'clock it hit 96, and stuck there until 4:45 when 98 was reached. That was at the downtown weather bureau atop the new post office.

At the municipal airport, it was warmer, due to its exposure to radiation of the sun's rays from the bare surface of the landing field. At 5 o'clock, the reading there was 99.

The 99-degree temperature was also recorded at the airport at 6 o'clock. An hour later, however, the mercury dropped 11 degrees to 88. The midnight reading was 76 degrees.

No Reliable Report. While there were no reliable reports of people frying eggs on sidewalks, the classic thing to do during a heat wave, some people did have fun placing thermometers in the sun and watching them explode at 120.

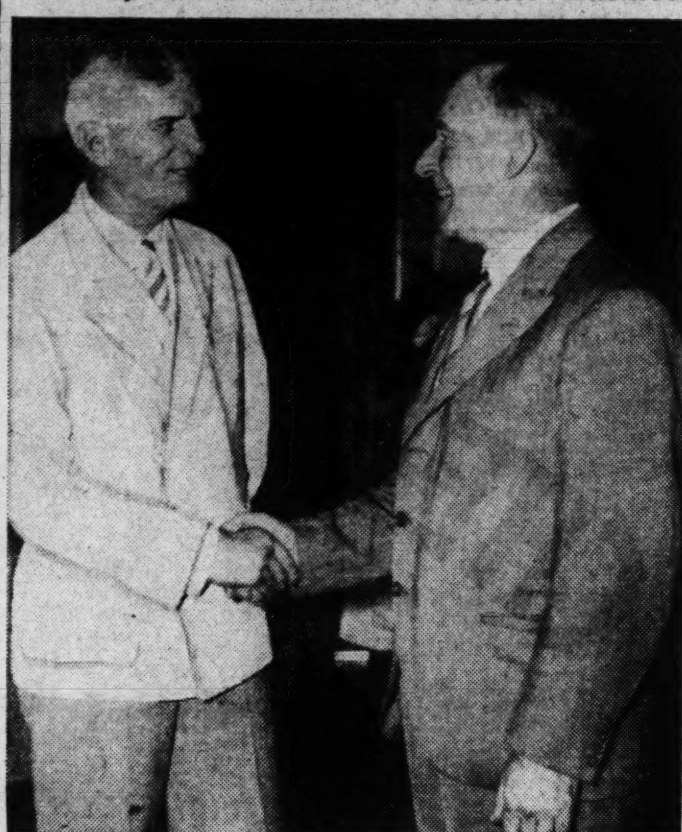

In the weather bureau's annual crop report, issued yesterday, the past week was described as the warmest of the season, and the driest period since the week ending May 9.

No rain has fallen in Atlanta for the last nine days.

The hot, dry period however, has been generally favorable to the Georgia cotton crop, and has helped keep the boll weevil in check, the bureau's report stated.

Most sections of the state report good blooming and boll formation, but there is said to be a shortage of blooms near West Point.

Atlanta, British Leaders Discuss Business

Prominent businessmen from both sides of the Atlantic met yesterday in Atlanta and decided that business was good. Alvin B. Cates (left), president of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, welcomed Harry L. Taylor, buying director of a large English paper firm, who is interested in establishing trade with Georgia pulp mills. Taylor is a messenger to the Baptist World Alliance, and president of the Baptist Union of Great Britain and Ireland.

No War in Europe Soon Predicted By Baptist Messenger of Britain

Harry L. Taylor, Prominent English Businessman, Here for Alliance, Admits His View on World Peace Is Not Shared by Majority.

There will be no war soon in Europe, according to Harry L. Taylor, prominent British businessman, who is a messenger to the Baptist World Alliance, and president of the Baptist Union of Great Britain and Ireland. Taylor arrived in Atlanta yesterday from Toronto and Philadelphia, where he has inspected branch factories of the large Bristol, England, paper firm, of which he is director.

Though his view on world peace, Taylor admitted, is not shared by the majority of Englishmen, nevertheless, business of Great Britain is not disturbed greatly by wars and rumors of wars. "The English attitude is one of acceptance, for we businessmen have learned that our business suffers rather than profits by our worrying. We go on, knowing that our fears can neither start nor stop war and we devote our energies to industry. That is why economic conditions in England are good," he said.

vention and head of the Southwestern Seminary at Seminary Hill, Texas, arrived with Mrs. Scarborough last night.

Meanwhile, yesterday in Washington, Secretary of State Hull was extending greetings to a group of six foreign Baptist leaders, en route to Atlanta.

Headed by Dr. T. J. Dunning, of London, the group was introduced by Representative Jed Johnson, of Oklahoma. They came from Great Britain, Spain, Germany, Poland and Finland.

First of three brothers who will use the occasion of the Baptist Congress meeting as a family reunion, arrived yesterday. He is James Cook, of Edmonton, Canada, who is awaiting the arrival of his two brothers from England. This will be their first meeting in 15 years.

One brother is Dr. Henry Cook, of London, who will speak to the congress Monday morning on "Personal Evangelism." He is general supervisor of the London area of 270 Baptist churches.

Dr. John McLaren Cook, professor of mathematics at Cambridge, is the other member of the family who will make the journey.

James Cook, the Canadian, said this was his first trip to the deep south, though he declared, "Of course, I have been south before. That was a trip to Chicago."

As the outstanding foreign visitors were making the headlines, many hundreds of messengers were pouring into the city unheralded. By train, by bus, by auto and plane, they came with more than 10,000 registrations filed through Wednesday at headquarters of the Alliance at the auditorium, according to Dr. W. A. Duncan, chairman of registrations.

All these have not reached Atlanta yet, but their registration slip and fee are already in the hands of Alliance officials.

Local hotel men yesterday expressed belief that their buildings would be filled to capacity by the time the congress gets in full swing. "Though we were at first disappointed by the number of reservations, we now feel that we will do capacity business," one spokesman of the group said. Yesterday's reservations were unusually large, it was said.

The amazing thing about this congress is its ability to draw thousands of delegates from all over the world and yet the organization has no authority of any kind over its members.

And, in turn, each member of the congress represents no group but speaks for himself alone, according to Dr. James H. Rushbrooke, general secretary of the Alliance, who declared that the use of the word "messenger" rather than "delegate" should be used in referring to persons who will make up the congress.

MINNEAPOLIS WPA STRIKERS GET PACT

Will Vote on Peace Plan Advanced by Governor Stassen.

MINNEAPOLIS, July 19.—(AP)—Possible settlement of the WPA strike that led to riots, death and bloodshed here was sighted to-night when a committee representing strikers and labor unions agreed to put Governor Harold Stassen's five-point peace plan to a vote of the workers.

The developments came late in a day studded with warnings of new violence and threats of federal prosecution.

Mayor George E. Leach asked for state troops to quell new riots which he said were "imminent." Governor Stassen replied with a request that the mayor "publicly assume your legal responsibilities" for protection of non-strikers.

Federal Judge Robert C. Bell summoned the grand jury for Monday morning, at the request of Attorney General Frank Murphy in Washington, and United States District Attorney Victor Anderson announced "a number of violations" of the law against intimidating WPA workers had been established.

At Camp Ripley, 100 miles away, National Guard troops in summer training practiced riot control tactics.

Meanwhile, the city's projects remained closed with 10,000 idle. Quiet prevailed in contrast with last week's riots that left two dead and 17 injured.

P. O. DEPARTMENT SHOWS SURPLUS

$10,000,000 Operating Profit Reported for Year.

WASHINGTON, July 19.—(AP)—The Postoffice Department today reported a net operating postal surplus of $10,000,000 for the fiscal year ended June 30.

This figure did not take into consideration the cost of so-called non-postal items—free mail and air mail subsidies.

For the fiscal year ended June 30, 1938, the department reported a net postal surplus of $4,412,821, although actual receipts were $43,811,556 less than cost of expenditures. The net surplus figure was arrived at by making a bookkeeping deduction of $48,224,377 for non-postal items.

WHITNEY BOURNE WEDS IN NEW YORK

Actress and Broker-Husband Sail on Honeymoon.

NEW YORK, July 19.—(AP)—Whitney Bourne, honey-haired actress and heiress, sailed for Europe today on a three-month honeymoon with Stanton Griffiths, a Wall Street genius twice her age.

Once again the 26-year-old stage and screen star startled society by marrying in almost complete secrecy a man to whom only her closest friends knew she was engaged.

They were married today at the Locust Valley home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Harvey D. Gibson, wife of the president of the Manufacturers Trust Company. Miss Bourne's father, George G. Bourne, also was present.

idea of settling European problems by arms, really hasn't any intention of resorting to war.

An indication that the French government is convinced of the precariousness of the situation was the recent decree of Premier Daladier ordering the vacations of French armament workers postponed until September 30. It is understood that if there was no war by that time and no prospects of early fighting, Daladier would cut down the military overhead early in October by sending home the first batches of married or "dispensable" reservists from the army.

French mobilization figures have been kept secret, but it is a good guess that France now has more than 1,300,000 men under arms.

BRITISH DEFENSES STRENGTHENED ON SEVERAL FRONTS

London-Tokyo Negotiations Remain Deadlocked; Danzig Police Seize 20 'Marxian Socialists.'

By The Associated Press.
Britain added new touches to her defenses and those of the British bloc of nations yesterday while in the Far East British-Japanese negotiations remained deadlocked.

Tokyo government sources said, however, that Britain had indicated willingness to agree "in principle" that a state of war exists in China—which would be virtually the same as granting belligerent rights to Japan even though a declaration of war never has been made.

But British Ambassador Sir Robert Leslie Craigie was said to have been unwilling in an angry conference with Foreign Minister Hachiro Arita to promise Britain's active assistance in controlling anti-Japanese terrorism in China.

Talks Postponed.
Further talks were postponed until Friday although there were further developments in the British-Japanese dispute at Tientsin where the Japanese have blockaded the British and French concessions since June 14. The Japanese military said a "new step" against the concession was planned if British "persist in aiding" Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

Shipping and other matters continued to irritate relations of the two powers.

With an eye to trouble spots both in the Far East and Europe, Britain moved for stronger military defenses on several fronts.

Royal air force bombers soared over France on another practice flight as Air Minister Sir Kingsley Wood hinted similar flights might be made over other British allies such as Poland, Greece, Rumania and Turkey.

British Ships To Visit.
The admiralty disclosed British warships soon would visit Greek and Turkish ports, and possibly later would go to Bulgaria, Rumania and Soviet Russia.

Prime Minister Chamberlain, facing a barrage of questions in the house of commons, said he hoped to be able to announce conclusion of a British-French-Soviet mutual assistance pact before parliament adjourns August 4, but added, "we certainly have not got an agreement yet."

In Danzig political police arrested 20 "Marxian Socialists" accused of plotting to dynamite bridges and public buildings in event of a clash with Poland over the Free City's desire for reunion with Germany.

Danzig Police Boosted.
The political purge of remnants of opposition to the local Nazi government came along with announcement that Danzig's police force had been increased.

From Italy came word that the exodus of Germans already has begun from the Italian Tyrol which Mussolini wishes to Italianize by removing all foreign elements. About 100 Germans have gone to Germany as the advance guard of about 10,000 due to depart under a Rome-Berlin repatriation agreement.

While this population shift was under way, President Roosevelt moved to solve problems arising from a far greater mass movement of people—the refugees from central Europe.

He invited the intergovernmental committee on refugees to meet with him at the White House for a two-day conference the first week in September.

MONROE, La., July 19.—(P)—State Senator James A. Noe, former Governor and candidate for Governor, today filed affidavits against two Monroe and Shreveport newspaper publishers alleging criminal libel as a result of an article published in the Monroe newspaper in connection with the Louisiana oil investigation.

The affidavits were filed before Judge David I. Garrett against John D. Ewing, publisher of the Shreveport Times, and Wilson Ewing, publisher of the Monroe News-Star and Morning World.

Noe's affidavit alleged that the article "seeks to charge the affiant with complicity in handling or profiting through handling of 'hot oil' and therein 'is untrue'."

SENATE APPROVES COTTON INSURANCE

Rejects Demands That Program Embrace Tobacco and Vegetables.

WASHINGTON, July 19.—(P)—The senate voted today to extend the government's crop insurance program to cotton after rejecting demands that it also include tobacco, fruit, vegetables and other farm commodities.

Under the program, applied for the first time to wheat last year, growers who pay premiums will be compensated, in event of losses, in cotton or its cash equivalent.

Senators Bankhead, Democrat, Alabama, Russell, Democrat, Georgia, and Schwelbach, Democrat, Washington, were among those who argued against the inclusion of any new crops in the program at this time, contending insufficient experience made a successful plan impossible.

Georgia NYA Allotted $1,657,160 For Program During Fiscal Year

Funds Will Be Used To Provide Work Experience and Instruction for Average of 6,000 Youths a Month, D. B. Lasseter Announces.

National Youth Administration of Georgia has been allotted $1,657,160 to operate its work program for the fiscal year, D. B. Lasseter, state administrator, announced yesterday. The funds will be used to provide work experience and instruction for an average of 6,000 young Georgians a month, Lasseter said, 1,700 of whom will be stationed at the 12 resident training centers in the state, and 4,300 placed on local projects.

The agency accepts only out-of-school young people between 18 and 24 who are unemployed and certified as needy by the county welfare department. They are placed either in the resident centers or on local projects and given work and related training designed to fit them for private employment. Period of assignment to the centers is from six to 12 months.

The centers are usually operated in co-operation with established schools. Local projects are sponsored by public agencies and include work not provided for in their budgets. Project proposals have been received for the construction of 35 vocational buildings at high schools in Georgia.

The NYA, Lasseter said, has already completed 100 such buildings in the state.

No word has yet been received, Lasseter said, as to the amount available for the NYA student aid program this year. The program provides part time employment for high school, college and graduate students. It is expected, however, that funds will be provided to assist approximately 12,000 students continue their education.

STEPHENS LOSES COURT POST FIGHT

Petition for Mandamus Order for Recognition as Chief Justice Dismissed.

Monroe Stephens, the Blue Ridge lawyer who seeks to become chief justice of the Georgia supreme court, was back at the starting line last night after an effort to displace incumbent Justice Charles Reid by litigation.

A three-judge superior court dismissed Stephens' petition for a mandamus order requiring five associate justices of the high court to recognize him as chief justice. The judges held they were "without jurisdiction of the subject matter," since the question dealt with official conduct of a higher court.

Write-In Votes Cited.
Stephens based his claim on 814 write-in votes in the June 6 general election. He declined to comment on the decision, or indicate whether he planned to continue his fight for recognition.

S. Price Gilbert, a former associate justice of the supreme court, appeared in behalf of the court with what he described as a "courtesy answer" setting forth reasons which the defendants said would render it unlawful for them to plead in the case either to the said (mandamus) petition or to Judge Hugh M. Dorsey's rule nisi to show cause why Stephens should not be granted an absolute mandamus.

Answer Listed.
"It is judicially known," the answer said, "that the authority of the supreme court is not less than nor subordinate to that of a superior court, in relations to the matters referred to in the petition."

Gilbert contended a mandamus writ could be issued only by a court having authority superior to that of the officer or tribunal at which it was directed.

The presiding superior court judges were Virlyn B. Moore, Edgar E. Pomeroy and John D. Humphries.

U. S. LEADS WORLD IN AVIATION EXPORTS

NEW YORK, July 19.—(P)—John H. Jouett, president of the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce of America, said today the United States in 1938 continued to lead the world by a wide margin in the export of aviation products.

He described the two European nations' bids for expanded markets abroad as an attempt to strengthen their industries and make them reservoirs of air force strength.

PRESIDENT AGREES TO EXPANSION OF LENDING PROGRAM

Favors Providing Wider Authority for RFC To Insure Business Loans Likely To Be Repaid.

WASHINGTON, July 19.—(P)—Senators Wagner and Mead, New York Democrats, announced after a White House conference today that President Roosevelt had agreed to expansion of his lending program to provide broadened authority for the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to insure business loans having a "reasonable prospect" of repayment.

Mead introduced the proposition as an amendment to the administration's lending bill shortly after conferring with the chief executive, Administrator Jesse Jones, of the Federal Lending Agency, and Chairman Emil Schram, of the RFC. The amendment provides that, when capital or credit at "reasonable rates" is not readily available, the RFC shall have authority to insure up to 100 per cent of loans made by banks and other lending institutions to business enterprises.

Urge Educational Drive.
All four of the President's visitors joined in a statement saying Mr. Roosevelt had advocated an educational campaign, like that conducted by the Federal Housing Administration in the home-building field, to "bring home to banks, insurance companies, finance companies and other lending institutions what the RFC will do in the way of insuring current and long-term loans to business and to

NYA HEAD PRAISES AMERICAN YOUTHS

CINCINNATI, July 19.—(P)—American youth has been through the mill in the last ten years and shown it has "what it takes," Aubrey Williams, head of the National Youth Administration, said today.

Williams, who came here for an inspection of projects, said this was one of two truths to be drawn from the depression.

"The other is that there's still opportunity for American youth despite the fact that it has grown up in one of the worst periods in the past 40 to 50 years," he said in an interview.

bring home to businessmen, regardless of the size of their business, what their local banks and lending institutions can do to meet the credit needs."

Simultaneously, Mead told reporters that he was communicating with Chairman Marriner Eccles of the Federal Reserve Board regarding another proposed amendment to the lending bill which he said would make available approximately $270,000,000 for loans to business by the Federal Reserve banks.

He said he expected to introduce this legislation tomorrow but that he had not discussed it with the President.

Amendments Sought.
Meantime, Senator Barkley, of Kentucky, the Democratic leader, told the senate banking committee he would present other amendments to the lending bill which would eliminate at least three features to which some members have objected.

The changes which Barkley said he would ask included:

1. Elimination of a revolving fund provision so the program would be confined to the total authorized in the bill instead of permitting reuse of the self-liquidating investments as they are repaid.

2. Elimination of a provision for creation of corporations in the separate states under the various

STRIKERS ON WPA TO RETURN TO JOBS

Tentative Plans in Minnesota Strife Do Not 'Penalize' Workers.

WASHINGTON, July 19.—(P)—Colonel F. C. Harrington, WPA commissioner, announced tonight that a tentative plan had been worked out under which Minneapolis WPA strikers could return to their jobs. He added that he approved of the plan, which he asserted had been worked out by Governor Stassen, of Minnesota, and Linus Grotzbach, state WPA administrator.

Where under strict interpretation of the "five-day rule," strikers absent from work five days would have to be recertified for relief, the new plan provides that they may get their jobs back merely by signing affidavits that they have engaged in no illegal acts.

Harrington said there was no desire to "penalize persons who failed to return to work."

lending agencies participating in the program.

3. Modification of a provision for leasing equipment to railroads so that any such equipment would be built only to the specification of railroads desiring to use it. This change would also permit outright equipment loans, so that the roads could buy new equipment direct if they desired.

Florida Canal Bobs Up.

The Florida canal and Passamaquoddy development issues bobbed up again when Treasury officials admitted to the house banking committee allotments to works of the kind would be permitted by the administration's lending bill. Secretary Morgenthau and General Counsel Edward H. Foley Jr., added, however, the $200,000,000 Florida waterway and Maine power project, had not figured in any of the discussions which gave rise to the lending proposal.

Possible to Get Funds.

The question arose when Representative Wolcott, Republican, Michigan, asked Foley whether there was anything in the bill that would preclude allotments to the canal or the abandoned Passamaquoddy power project.

Foley replied it would be possible to form a corporation to obtain money for either of them, provided the projects were found to be self-liquidating.

CALIFORNIANS CALL NATIONS TO MRA

Dr. Buchman Presides at Hollywood Ceremonies; F.D.R. Sends Message.

HOLLYWOOD, July 19.—(P)—A thousand men and women from 25 countries thronged to the Hollywood bowl tonight with thousands of Californians to participate in a "call to the nations for moral rearmament."

Dr. Frank Buchman, who initiated the movement a little more than a year ago in the east end of London, presided. He predicted "Hollywood can be the sounding-board to the nations for moral rearmament."

Prominent Speakers.

Speakers included H. W. (Bunny) Austin, England's No. 1 tennis player; George Muff, labor member of the British house of commons; Bill Rowell, representative of England's 420,000 unemployed at the British Trades Union Congress in 1936, and H. W. Twitchell, of New York.

Messages were received from President Roosevelt, former President Herbert Hoover and Henry Ford.

"The underlying strength of the world must consist in the moral fiber of her citizens," said the President's message.

"There is enough good will in the people to overcome all war, all class dissension and all economic stagnations, when that good will shall be hitched to the affairs of men and nations," Ford's message said.

"This is the one kind of power in which governments of men are deficient and of the usability of which they seem unaware. A movement which translates our private moral convictions into our public policies appeals to all who would help the world forward to its next stage of progress."

Foreign representatives included delegations from the Scandinavian countries, China, Japan and Burma in picturesque national costumes, led by a bagpipe band and 15 killed Scots.

200 SAVED AT SEA BY 80-MILE RACE

Picked Up From Lifeboats After Abandoning Burning Freighter.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 19.—(P)—An 80-mile race with death in the fog-shrouded far Pacific was recounted today as further details came by radio regarding the burning and sinking of the Japanese freighter Bokuyo Maru, 3,500 miles west of San Francisco.

Of the upwards of 200 persons aboard the ship, so far as could be learned only three died—a three-year-old baby, a junior second engineer and a stewardess.

The rest put out in four lifeboats a few minutes before the vessel—carrying nitrates, copper concentrate and copper from Chile to Yokohama via San Pedro, Cal.—sank.

Of three ships in the vicinity, the tanker Associated was nearest. It turned 80 miles from its course, found the fog gradually lifting as lifeboats were sighted, and took the survivors aboard. They were transferred a few hours later to the Florida Maru bound for Yokohama.

Captain L. E. Hawkins, veteran master of the Associated, operated by the Tide Water Associated Oil Company, radioed there were "numerous injuries" among the survivors but necessary food, clothing and medical supplies were available.

The survivors were in lifeboats about 12 hours.

SOAP BOX CARS GLORIFIED COASTERS

Gravity Only Power To Propel Fast Creations.

By J. P. GORMLEY,
National Director, All-American Soap Box Derby.

The Soap Box Derby is a coast-wagon race for boys aged 10 to inclusive. It is sponsored jointly by the Chevrolet Motor Division of General Motors Sales Corporation, and leading newspapers in approximately 100 cities throughout the United States, under an arrangement whereby Chevrolet maintains supervision over the broad general program, the paper at each sponsor-point conducting its own Derby race under national rules, and then sending its local champion to compete in the national finals at Akron, where Chevrolet and the Akron Beacon Journal collaborate as hosts.

The Derby racers are gravity-powered cars built by the boys themselves. Rules set certain restrictions on weight and dimensions, and specify certain types of wheels and brakes, the main purpose of these restrictions being to assure safety for drivers and lookers, and equal opportunity for all boys, regardless of their family's circumstances. No car may cost more than $10 to build, and no adult may assist in its construction, except by giving advice. Rules involving processes specifically barred by the rules, are disallowed.

The Soap Box Derby idea is the "brain child" of Myron E. Scott, a newspaper photographer at Dayton, Ohio. Early in 1933, when on an assignment for his paper, he came across a group of young boys scooting down a Dayton hill in home-made miniature automobiles.

Scott took a few minutes off from his assignment to watch the fun, and the eagerness and enthusiasm of the youngsters fired his imagination. He went back to his office and sold his managing editor the idea of sponsoring a soap box derby for the boys of Dayton.

First Derby Run Off.

Several weeks later, under Scott's direction, the first organized Soap Box Derby was run off as a promotion of the Dayton

Daily News. The event attracted wide interest in Dayton and surrounding cities. Its popularity convinced Scott of the possibilities of a Soap Box Derby on a national scale. He took his idea to Chevrolet, whose officials were immediately interested.

Scott and Chevrolet went to work early in 1934 enlisting the co-operation of leading newspapers throughout the United States in a countrywide coaster race event for the approaching summer. The response was instantaneous. Some 34 papers sponsored the event locally, and the national finals were held at Dayton. Approximately 45,000 spectators gathered at the track to watch the miniature racers. Robert Turner, of Muncie, Ind., won first place and a $2,000 university scholarship offered by Chevrolet.

In 1935, the second year of the All-American Soap Box Derby, there were 52 city champions in the finals, held at Akron, Ohio. It was estimated that more than 50,000 boys took part in the local races held throughout the country. The crowd that lined Akron's Tallmadge Hill for the running of the national finals was estimated at

Prizes For Atlanta Racers

Winner of the North Georgia championship in the Soap Box Derby finals Saturday will compete against champions from 120 American cities and six foreign countries in Akron August 13 with a chance at a four-year college scholarship and at two Chevrolet sedans, national top prizes.

The prizes are to be awarded the national first, second and third place winners by the Chevrolet division of General Motors, owners of the Soap Box Derby copyright and joint sponsors of the national event with The Constitution and other newspapers throughout the country.

The winner will represent the ultimate in speed on the track and precision in midget car design and building. He will be victor over hundreds of Georgia youngsters who have been competing in zone contests throughout north Georgia and entered in the Atlanta preliminaries Thursday and Friday.

Trip to Akron.

The trip to Akron, to compete in the national finals, will be only one of the grand rewards for victory for the north Georgia winner.

SCHOOLBOY PATROL TO AID AT DERBY

Captain Malcom Calls Members To Help Police at Soap Box Finals.

All members of the Atlanta schoolboy patrol, especially those who made the trip to Washington, have been called by Captain Jack Malcom of the city police traffic department to meet him at Hemphill and 14th streets at 1:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon to assist in traffic control at the Soap Box Derby finals.

The boy patrolmen are asked to come with their official uniform belts, prepared for duty throughout the afternoon as auxiliaries to the regular city policemen detailed to handle the crowds.

Opportunity for the boy patrolmen to help arises from extra demands on the traffic department because of the opening Saturday of the World Baptist Alliance convention, Captain Malcom said.

The youngsters will be stationed along the 1200-foot race course to do jobs similar to those they have done so successfully in protecting the safety of the city's thousands of school children for the last several years.

"Those attending the derby may be assured of smooth, orderly handling of the crowds and will have new reason to be proud of their schoolboy patrolmen when they see these youngsters in action Saturday," Captain Malcom said.

Helmet to every entrant in Atlanta race, given by Davidson-Paxon Company.

SHAW TO BE GUEST AT FINALS IN AKRON

Winner of 500-Mile Auto Classic at Indianapolis To Attend Derby.

DETROIT, July 19.—Race atmosphere at the All-American Soap Box Derby finals, to be run off at Akron, Ohio, August 13 this year, will be heightened by the presence of a celebrity who is "tops" in the world of speed, J. P. Gormley, general chairman of the event, announced here today. Wilbur Shaw, winner of the 500-mile speedway race at Indianapolis, has accepted an invitation to be special guest of Chevrolet, which sponsors the race in conjunction with more than 100 newspapers from coast to coast.

Shaw is not a newcomer in the Soap Box Derby picture. He has been on hand at Akron each year since 1935, and more than 300 young speed chumps, from cities all over the country, have experienced the thrill of chatting with him and shaking his hand.

ures, past and present, who will attend or officiate this year are Eddie Rickenbacker and Harry Hartz, the latter acting as official starter for the race.

H. M. VAN DEVENDER, Soap Box Derby Director Atlanta Constitution.

The Atlanta Soap Box Derby is made possible each year through the efforts and backing of the above four Chevrolet dealers and H. M. Van Devender, of The Constitution. They started their activities back in April to make this year's event the greatest in history for the Soap Box Derby.

1939 Derby Rules Simplified To Encourage More Entrants

Bigger and Better Race for Greater Number of Boys Is Aim of Soap Box Sports Classic; Age Limits Also Changed This Year.

A bigger, better race for an even greater number of boys than those who competed in 1938 was the theme behind revision of the Soap Box Derby rules for 1939, according to J. P. Gormley, national director of the great sports classic for youth, which is co-sponsored here by this paper and the Chevrolet Motor Division.

couraging more boys to enter the race in 1939. Although few major changes were made, the technical committee studied every regulation thoroughly, recommending simplification of construction details. When the 1939 finals are run off at Akron on August 13, we hope more boys than ever before will have had a chance to enjoy the thrills and excitement that are a part of the derby.

Age Limits Changed. The age limits have been changed for 1939, with the new age requirements set at from 10 to 15 years, inclusive. Formerly, nine-year-olds were allowed to compete.

The principal rule change concerns the wheels of the midge racers. Because of some doubt existing in previous years as to which types of wheels were permissible under the rules great clarification of that issue is found in the 1939 code. Wheel size, however, remains the same.

Overall length of the race cars has been increased for 1939, according to the committee's ruling with the present maximum set at 80 inches, as compared with a maximum of 72 inches in 1938.

New Weight Ruling. Combined weight of car and boy is again set at 250 pounds, the rules disclose, but the car itself cannot weigh more than 150 pounds. The latter restriction is another new 1939 ruling.

Cost limit on the 1939 racers is the same and is set at a maximum of $10 per car. However, one change has been made in the regulations covering this phase of the pre-race preparation. If a contestant employs an automobile steering wheel and shaft, the cost of this item, whether purchased new or second-hand, or acquired free, is not included in the overall cost of the car. This ruling, the committee points out, was made purely in the interests of contestant safety.

As in previous years, the rules body asserts, the first interest of the Chevrolet Motor Division—aside from a successful race from the boys' standpoint—is promotion of safety, both in the national finals at Akron and in local races.

approximately 90,000. Maurice E. Bale Jr., of Anderson, Ind., won the 1935 scholarship.

The third year, 1936, saw the inauguration of the International Soap Box Derby in conjunction with the All-American race. A Soap Box Derby was held in South Africa, the South Africa champion making the trip to Akron for the international championship race. There were 116 local races in all parts of the United States, with more than 100,000 boys participating.

Special Track Built. In preparation for the 1936 finals, a concrete track was constructed adjacent to the Akron airport, in a location which afforded adequate accommodations for a large crowd. More than 100,000 persons gathered at this "Derby Downs" for the national and international finals. Herbert E. Muench Jr., of St. Louis, carried off the scholarship in 1936, and Robert Ballard, of White Plains, N. Y., won the national and international titles in 1937.

Local races throughout the sponsor city list are run off during the early summer months. On August 13 boys who have qualified as local champions will compete

See American Boys at Their Best SEE THE ALL-AMERICAN SOAP BOX DERBY

Saturday---2:00 P.M. o'clock---on Northside Drive

Join the crowds that will line the Soap Box Derby course, and you will be well repaid by an exhibit of racing that, for thrills and tenseness, skill and earnestness, enthusiasm and fun, is unsurpassed by any sports event in the country.

Come and watch the keen and friendly rivalry of boys who for months have worked and built their cars for this day. See them pilot their own race cars down the Derby hill. Come prepared to thrill with the contestants and cheer them on in heat after heat.

You will see a colorful spectacle and an exciting contest. You will see also proof that the youth of today has the typical and traditional spirit that has made America great.

In the inexpensive home-built soap-box cars, you will discover that today's boyhood possesses ingenuity and initiative and resourcefulness. In the drivers themselves, you will see, time after time, exhibits of quick thinking, daring, and skill. In their conduct on the hill, you will observe the qualities of fair play and sportsmanship evidenced by winners and losers alike.

The All-American Soap Box Derby is sponsored nationally by Chevrolet. In this city, it is sponsored by this newspaper and your Chevrolet dealer organization, who join in inviting you to attend tomorrow's races. Come early—stay to watch the final races. Cheer for the new 1939 champion, who will represent this city at Akron, Ohio, on August 13, when champions from 100 cities will compete in the National and International Soap Box Derby finals.

For the Champion THE M. E. COYLE TROPHY

The All-American Soap Box Derby, now in its sixth year, has won national and international recognition as one of the greatest character-building competitions for boys. The M. E. Coyle Trophy, awarded to the champion in each of the one hundred cities where races are held, is a symbol of the qualities of sportsmanship, resourcefulness, and perseverance which the Soap Box Derby is designed to promote. . . . At Akron, Ohio, August 13, the champions from one hundred cities will compete in the All-American and International finals.

WINNER OF DERBY HEADED FOR FAME

Atlanta Race Victors Always Make Good Records in Akron Finals.

The Georgia boy who flashes down Northside drive to victory in the north Georgia finals of the Soap Box Derby Saturday afternoon has better than an even chance of becoming the hero of America's boyhood in the national finals at Akron, Ohio, August 13, local derby officials asserted yesterday.

In the last two derbies Atlanta boys have failed to take first honors only by the narrowest margin. Lamar McDaniel, 1938 Atlanta and north Georgia champion, raced the national course in time only 15-100ths of a second slower than the national champion.

The midget racers entered this year are faster than any that have taken the track in an Atlanta derby since the event first was sponsored by The Constitution six years ago. Many of the drivers already have become veterans of this thrilling sport, as skilled as any in the country in getting the last split second of speed out of their tiny cars.

"The boy who is good enough to lead the fast field that will zoom down Northside drive Saturday afternoon, will be good enough to hold his own in competition with any other youngsters in America," H. M. Van Devender, of The Constitution, the derby director, believes.

DERBY CARS BEST IN HISTORY OF RACE

Professional Help Limited, But Soap Box Entries Better Built, Van Devender Says.

Miniature cars built by Georgia boys for entry in the Soap Box Derby this year surpass any which have been seen on Georgia derby tracks in the five previous runnings of the event, it was reported yesterday by H. M. Van Devender, of The Constitution, Georgia director of the derby.

"The rules committee put the races squarely in the hands of the boys themselves through tighter regulations concerning professional help and the boys have responded brilliantly with improvements in design and construction," the derby director said.

Under the new rules, the racing cars must be strictly amateur products of the young racers themselves, with reasonable allowance for amateur assistance of their fathers and their buddies. Special machine shop and garage work, special bearings and other professional aid, however, is strictly taboo.

All the midget racers have been inspected by experts and their eligibility from standpoint of construction has been checked in advance.

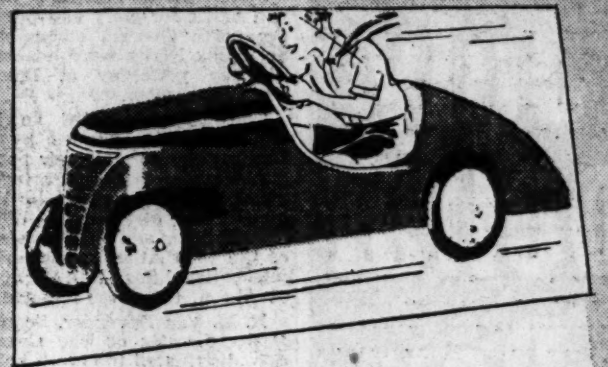

"Ability of the boys to build better and faster cars is demonstrated by the fast time made in the zone contests held during the last week to choose the finalists in the north Georgia championship races which follow the Atlanta championships on the Northside drive course Saturday afternoon," the derby director said.

Mr. Van Devender commended

the fine spirit of sportsmanship and willingness to abide by the rules displayed by the youngsters in construction of their cars. New developments in streamlining distinguish many of them.

DERBY ENTRANTS FETED AT PARTY

Talk by Ralph McGill, Showing of Motion Pictures, Feature Entertainment.

More than 300 Atlanta boys who will battle for glory and prizes in the north Georgia championship Soap Box Derby were honored at a party yesterday at Davison-Paxon's tearoom.

The program lasted an hour, and was well attended by both Derby entrants and their parents. A feature of the gathering was a talk on sportsmanship by Ralph McGill, executive editor of The Constitution, and motion pictures of the 1938 Atlanta race and the international Soap Box Derby race at Akron, Ohio, were shown.

H. M. Van Devender, Soap Box Derby director of The Constitution, distributed the crash helmets the youthful drivers will wear in the race and gave final instructions regarding the elimination races, which will begin at 10 o'clock this morning.

Chess Lagomarsino, advertising manager of Davison-Paxon's, was master of ceremonies at the party.

of them even for years since The Constitution sponsored the first Soap Box Derby in 1933.

Days upon days of painstaking labor are represented in the midgest cars in which the youngsters will make their bids for fame down the 1,200-foot stretch. They have built the cars with their own hands.

More anxious days of effort, often punctuated with bumps and bruises, have gone into mastering the control of their fast-rolling racers, learning how to get the last split-second of speed out of them, learning how to shift their controls quickly and without a skid or spill, learning the technique that makes champions in Soap Box Derby racing just as it does in other sports.

Now the days and weeks and months of preparation are over, and at 10 o'clock this morning they will begin to learn how well they have done their jobs.

Preliminary dashes Thursday and Friday will trim the field down to approximately 40 cars and drivers who will be eligible for the Atlanta finals at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

Those 40 will be grouped for a series of final heats to choose the one who will try his speed and skill against the eight already selected in zone finals held in eight other north Georgia cities during the last three weeks.

Veterans Listed.
The Atlanta champion will compete against boys from other towns whose number includes veterans of previous competitions.

Tommy Barkdale, 14, representing the Conyers zone, is already a veteran of three derbies. He came second in his zone races in 1937 and was an almost sure winner in 1938 when a crack-up eliminated him.

Barney Whitaker, 13, of Augusta, is entered as winner of the Madison zone competition; Bill Ennis, 14, from West Point; Robert Gore, 14, from Newnan; J. E. Garrett Jr., 15, from Gainesville; Tom Chick, 15, from Monroe.

Bob Blackwell of Homer, won the Banks county championship. Fred Knox, of Fair Oaks, is the Marietta zone winner.

The North Georgia championships will be decided in four heats with three cars racing in each. Winners of the first three heats will proceed down the course in the final heat and the leader will have the trip to the Akron national finals and a truckload of valuable prizes for his reward.

Crowds totaling 60,000 persons already have watched preliminaries and finals in the zone races. Each city represented is sending a delegation of enthusiasts to pull for its champion in the Saturday finals.

Well Prepared.
Ample preparations have been made by Captain Jack Malone of the city police traffic department to handle the crowd at the Northside drive race course.

Admission is free. Parking space is available on side streets leading in to the race course. Additional buses have been arranged on the Luckie-Hemphill line.

Grandstand seats to accommodate 2,500 have been erected by Bass Junior High school students to raise money to send their drum and bugle corps to the national American Legion convention in Chicago in September.

ALLEGED KIDNAPER OF EX-WIFE FOUND

ered a .32-caliber revolver in the automobile.

Acting Police Chief George J. Bernier asserted the alleged abductor last night held up Mrs. Beckwith, her husband and Leroy Langdon at a plumbing shop where, Langdon was employed, took $9 from the men and then forced the trio to drive to an isolated section with him.

As the automobile halted, Bernier related, Beckwith escaped and Langdon was allowed to walk away with his hands overhead. The alleged abductor drove away with Mrs. Beckwith. Bernier quoted Beckwith as saying the man attempted to shoot him as he fled.

Warrants charging kidnapping, armed robbery and larceny had been sworn out against Kehoe in district court as the hunt was extended to eight states, and state and local police searched backwoods camps, cabins and roads.

Fred Knox Wins Marietta Derby In Record-Setting, 28-Second Run

Osborne Freshman Noses Out Richard Crowder, Who Cost Him Crown Last Year; 5,000 Throng Old Canton Road Course for Thrill-Packed Race.

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION.

MARIETTA, Ga., July 19.—Fred Knox, 14, freshman at Osborne high school, Oak Knoll, took the Marietta zone championship in the Soap Box Derby and set a new record of 28 seconds for the 700-foot course on the Old Canton road in a thrill-packed session this afternoon. More than 5,000 thronged the race course in the blazing July sun to see him scot to victory.

Young Knox, who had been eliminated by Richard Crowder in the semi-finals last year, staged a spectacular come-back to nose out Crowder by a scant 12 inches across the finish line this afternoon.

Will Come to Atlanta.
Knox will bring his streamlined blue speedster to Atlanta for the north Georgia championship races Saturday afternoon with the hopes of all this section of the state pinned upon his speed and the accuracy of his driving.

Sponsoring him in the championship races will be the Cogs club, Marietta civic organization, Anderson Motor Company and the Cobb County Times which staged the zone races here today.

The race was electric with youthful triumph and tragedy. Young Crowder, who came so close to winning the zone event for a second year, was racing before the eager eyes of three younger brothers and a younger sister. Bill, 7, and Buddy, 9, had been there to cheer him on to victory last year. But June, 4, and Gerald, 3, had been too young to attend his earlier triumph and were out, with their mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Crowder.

Four days before the race... after months of earnest work to perfect his car... Bobby came down with the mumps!

Bobby had gone into the semi-finals and won the special prize for best steering last year, only to be eliminated by young Crowder. Today, Brother Edward also piloted his way into the semi-finals only to lose to Crowder.

Joe Martin won the Anderson Motor Company pocket watch for best-built car. Guy Northcutt won the Cobb County Times wrist watch for best steering. Joe Abbott won the Robert E. Brumby tool set for best brakes. Happy McNeel was awarded the glad-der, to see their 10-year-old "big brother" race for the first time.

A Sportsman.
Richard gamely walked over to shake hands with Knox and congratulate him on his success but even his gameness wasn't enough to muster a smile for the photographers when they snaped him in the act of thoroughbred sportsmanship.

Winner Knox, 14 years old, was racing for the special admiration of his three older brothers, all of whom were there to see him win. Knox won the manual training work bench awards by H. N. Dupre as grand prize. Crowder received the bicycle given by the People's Loan & Finance Company as second grand prize.

Oh, Oh—The Mumps.
Edward Davis, 11, was piloting his 14-year-old brother Bobby's racer as the result of a juvenile disaster such as might happen to any youngster of derby-racing age.

U. S. MOVES TO END CIO-ARMOUR STRIFE

Conciliator To Confer With Chicago Labor Committee in Peace Effort.

CHICAGO, July 19.—(AP)—The federal government stepped into the dispute between the CIO and Armour & Company today on the eve of the first move to avert threatened strikes in the meat packing industry.

F. W. Chappell, United States Labor Department conciliator, told reporters he would discuss the controversy tomorrow with members of the city council's labor committee but would not determine what steps he would take until after the parley.

Representatives of Armour & Company, chief target of the walk-out threats of the CIO packinghouse workers' organizing committee, were also scheduled to confer tomorrow with the aldermen who are seeking to preserve peace at the stock yards.

Meanwhile, Armour officials issued a statement concerning the decision of PWOC leaders to call strikes in 17 Armour plants and in plants of other packing firms where they claim a majority of the employees of the packers declined to negotiate working agreements.

"The whole strike agitation is for a national contract with Armour & Company—the first step in reaching the ulterior objectives of a closed shop and the checkoff system of collection of union dues," it set forth.

"Recognizing that the closed shop and checkoff are the real objectives and because collective bargaining should be on a single local plant unit basis, Armour & Company has declined to enter into negotiations with the officers of the packinghouse workers' organizing committee for the discussion of a 'national contract'."

The National Labor Relations Board does not require such a contract.

In every respect Armour & Company is conforming to the requirements of the national labor relations act and no conditions exist which justify a strike."

Wheels Chair 600 Miles

To New York World Fair

GOLDSBORO, N. C., July 19.—(AP)—If you're planning to wheel yourself to the New York World's Fair this season, Rufus Foy can give you some hints.

He wheeled himself from here to the big city—about 600 miles—in a three-wheel invalid chair. The chair had only two breakdowns.

Steals Two Suits Leaves Pawn Tickets

Rufus Woolfolk, negro, can now qualify as an expert on how it feels to be very, very hot. But gaining the knowledge was worth it—he recovered two stolen suits of clothes.

Rufus told police a burglar entered his home at 158 Electric avenue Monday and made off with a suit. The burglary was discovered when Rufus returned from work. Another suit was stolen Tuesday.

Yesterday, while the mercury played with heat records, Rufus decided to remain home and catch the thief. He remained in the house he hid, with doors and windows closed, to simulate the appearance of no one at home.

Dusk fell. Rufus emerged from his vigil in the furnace-like quarters. In the mail box, he found two pawn tickets for his clothes.

CONFEREES NAMED IN PAY-HOUR ROW

Ramspeck Acts for Compromise on Barden Exemption Amendment.

WASHINGTON, July 19.—(AP)—Acting Chairman Ramspeck, Democrat, Georgia, of the house labor committee, named a subcommittee today to confer with Elmer Andrews, wage-hour administrator, and Representative Barden, Democrat, North Carolina, in an effort to work out compromise amendments to the wage-hour law.

Barden is the author of amendments which Andrews has estimated would exempt from the act 1,000,000 workers in the agricultural field and up to 400,000 "white collar" workers.

President Roosevelt contended yesterday that approval of the amendments would sanction unconscionably low wages for 2,000,000 of the poorest paid industrial workers.

At the close of an executive session of the labor committee today Ramspeck declared:

"This subcommittee must sit down with Andrews and Barden to see if they can get a satisfactory bill. My theory is that if we're going to get a bill it has got to be acceptable to the administration. Otherwise there will be no bill at all. A compromise is the answer."

"The white collar exemptions," said Ramspeck, "don't seem to present any difficulty, but the trouble comes with the agricultural exemptions."

BRIDGES IS CALLED 'RED' BY ATTORNEY

Lawyer Testifies Australi Said He Was 'Running Communist Party.'

SAN FRANCISCO, July 19.—Testimony that Harry Bridges once said he was "running" Communist party and that the Communist party was running maritime unions on the Pacific coast, was given at the late leader's deportation hearing today by Aaron Sapiro, attorney.

Sapiro asserted that Bridges made the statement to him in 1936 in a year the record-breaking 98-2 coastwise shipping tieup began. Called as a government witness Sapiro also testified Earl Browder, leader of the Communist party in the United States, told him "I know Harry Bridges a little about him. He is one of the hardest members we have to handle in the party."

Bridges, longshoremen's union leader and west coast CIO director, whom the government is seeking to deport to his native Australia as an alien Communist, learned far back in a swivel chair and smiled broadly.

Sapiro was the fourth major witness to accuse Bridges of having Communist connections. He detailed a series of events over a period in which one of his clients, Harry Lundberg, of the sailors' union of the Pacific, was contending against Bridges for maritime union power.

Sapiro said he met Browder in Los Angeles and told him "you" got to make Harry Bridges understand that the maritime union must stand together."

He quoted Browder as having answered, "I'll give that as an absolute order to Harry Bridges."

Five-Foot Snake, Mouse Caught in Same Trap
AURORA, Ind., July 19.—(AP)—Mrs. Fred Wellenkamp set a trap for a mouse and caught a snake. The trap, in a closet of her home, snared first a mouse and then a five-foot black snake which was after the mouse. Neighbor boy killed the snake for her.

Union Pickets Store With Only One Employee
PHILADELPHIA, July 19.—(AP)—An AFL union had been picketing a butcher shop for two months for a "closed shop."

The proprietor, Samuel Flashner, got an anti-picketing injunction yesterday.

Mary Blackwell Alexander Meets Movie Celebrities in New York City

By Sally Forth.

MARY BLACKWELL ALEXANDER is visiting her brother, Earl Blackwell, that erstwhile and popular Atlanta who lives in New York City, and comes in contact with so many of the celebrities naturally visiting to the metropolis. One of the interesting phases of her visit as meeting Tyrone Power and his pretty French wife, known to the loving picture world as Annabella. She met them at a cocktail party just before Tyrone and Annabella sailed recently on the S. S. Rex for their European sojourn.

Another thrilling experience came to Mary after she witnessed Tallulah Bankhead play the stella role in "The Little Foxes." The sparkling and talented Tallulah invited Earl and Mary to go to the club for supper after the show, and Hedda Hopper, of silver screen fame, was among her guests. Tallulah and her friends were ushered to a table in close proximity to where Elliott Roosevelt, Dorothy Lamour and Ethel Merman were dining, and Mary was introduced to these celebrities during the course of the evening.

Mary spends every week end at Earl's beach home on Long Island and enjoys lolling on the seashore and taking her daily swims in the water. While she is visiting Earl, Tom Alexander Jr., her husband, is training at the reserve officers' military camp at Charleston, S. C.

A GROUP of congenial surf enthusiasts who left yesterday by motor for Coronado Beach, Fla., included Mr. and Mrs. Jack Morris and their small daughter, Anne Stewart; Mr. and Mrs. Bart Gatlin and their small daughter; Mrs. George Herrin and Jimmy and Phil Mitchell.

The vacationists have taken an attractive house, commanding an unbroken view of the ocean, the porch of which catches a continuous sea breeze.

Swimming, tennis, fishing, rowing and dancing will provide diversion for the trip, and Sally predicts that the becoming sunbathers acquired by the Atlantans will attract wide admiration when they return to the city to begin fall activities.

AN INTERESTING summer is in store for Jimmy DuVall, who at the present is visiting his grandmother, Mrs. M. W. DuVall, and his aunt, Mrs. Edwin Malloy, in Cheraw, S. C.

Jimmy and his cousin, William Manning Malloy, who is a student at Woodbury-Forest in Virginia and who recently visited him at his home on Piedmont avenue, have planned to spend the remainder of the summer motoring to Washington, D. C., and New York. While in Washington, Jimmy will renew acquaintance with friends that he made while attending Landon School for Boys in the national capital. Of course when the two boys reach New York they will see everything there is to see at the World's Fair.

Before Jimmy returns home, he and William will spend a week

Mr. Mrs. Jernigan Observe Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. P. B. Jernigan celebrated their 65th wedding anniversary last evening at a picnic supper given in their honor by their grandchildren, Mr. and Mrs. Hodge Hays, at their home on Cumberland circle.

The affair took place in the garden, where the table was centered with a basket of pastel flowers, and graced with a wedding cake bearing 65 candles.

Mrs. W. H. Ison, mother of the hostess, assisted in entertaining.

All of the couple's children with the exception of one son, Walter Jernigan, of Asheville, N. C., were present. They include from Atlanta, Mesdames W. H. Ison, N. E. Garland, W. S. Ellis, R. K. Thow, and C. N. Jernigan, P. B. Jernigan Jr., and Herman G. Jernigan. Other children attending were Mr. and Mrs. S. Y. Austin, and their son Paul, of Scarsdale, N. Y., and Mrs. C. N. Visitors Honored at Luncheon Given at Brookhaven Country Club

Misses Annie Laurie Conner, of Eufula, Ala., and Nan Moses, of Savannah, who are visiting Miss Mildred Rand, were central figures at the luncheon given yesterday by Miss Martha Merritt, at Brookhaven, the Capitol City Country Club. Mrs. John A. Hynds assisted the hostess in entertaining.

The table was beautified with a graceful arrangement of marigolds and yellow predominated in other appointments on the luncheon table.

Miss Elizabeth Harris Marries Lieut. Hugh Griffith in Columbus

COLUMBUS, Ga., July 19.—Miss Elizabeth Harris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Harris, became the bride of Lieutenant Hugh Griffith on Sunday afternoon at St. Paul Methodist church. Rev. Loy Warwick, pastor, officiated.

Music was rendered by Mrs. Walter Byrd, organist, and Miss Virginia Craig, soloist. Ushers were Charles McEwen, Columbus; Harvey Kellerman, James Furgason and I. H. Hamilton, of South Pittsburgh.

Bridesmaids included the groom's sister, Miss Jane Griffith, of South Pittsburgh, Tenn.; Katherine Parker, of Tifton, and Miss Margaret Johnston, of Columbus. Miss Mary Homer, of Columbus, was maid of honor.

The bride wore a wedding dress of airy tulle and lace. Her veil of bridal illusion fell from a coronet of orange blossoms, and Invitations have been issued by Mr. and Mrs. John Leo Fay, of Portland, Me., to the marriage of their daughter, Miss Louise Fay, to Jack Reid, of Nashville, Tenn., formerly of Atlanta, the marriage to take place August 5 at Saint Joseph's church in Portland.

After their marriage, Mr. Reid and his bride will reside in Nashville, where he is associated with the L. L. and G. Insurance Company.

The groom-elect is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Reid. He is a brother of Mrs. P. E. Bowen and Edwin Reid. He attended Georgia Tech, where he was a member of the A. T. O. fraternity. Mr. and Mrs. Reid will motor next week with their son to Portland.

and W. M. Rainey, superintendent of DeKalb schools.

Mrs. Stevenson requests members of the board to meet promptly at 10 o'clock at a brief business session of the Board will be necessary.

Invited to meet the visitors were: Dorothy Sanford and her guest, Nancy Bradley, of Pelham, N. Y.; Emily Carter, Elsie Murrill, Helen Randall, Julia Block, Georgia Oliver, Caroline Yundt, Elsa McCall, Dana Shadburn, Mary Elizabeth Beers and Mrs. William Mason.

Mrs. William Armstrong entertained informally at tea as a complimentary gesture to Miss Conner and Miss Moses, at her Habersham road residence.

she carried a sheaf of white orchids and valley lilies. Her only ornament was a string of pearls, the gift of the groom.

S. C. Harris gave his daughter in marriage and Leslie Kellerman, of South Pittsburgh, was the groom's best man.

Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Harris entertained at an informal reception following the wedding. Later the bride changed her wedding dress for an ensemble of navy chiffon with touches of white pique and a shoulder bouquet of gardenias. Lieutenant Harris and his bride left for a motor trip to Florida, after which they will visit the family in Tennessee until they go to San Diego, Cal., on September 1, where he will enter training for aviation.

It's Time for June's Brides to Settle Down to Art of Housekeeping

Hubby's Loyalty May Cause Indigestion

By SALLY SAVER

Dear Brides:

Now that the notes of thanks for the sugar bowl and cream set, the sherbets, the salad plates, and all, are written it is time to settle down to the gentle art of housemaking. I hope you will genuinely like it, because after all, it really is a woman's work, and a lot of thoughtful persons consider it the most important work in the world.

A bride begins her housekeeping under the most favorable conditions, which should help toward making it a success. Everyone is wishing her well and her husband will bear with practically anything at first. He will eat anything his new wife sets before him without one complaint. A groom of several seasons ago told me his wife put uncooked rice in hamburgers, fried the hamburgers and served them to himself and a guest. If he had had delicate bridge-work there would have been a large dentist bill right off. As it was he had pretty sound teeth, but he did have to leave the table and resort to extreme measures to rid his teeth of those bullet-like particles. The guest, meanwhile had quietly, but very definitely, chosen not to eat his hamburger, which was all the more reason why this husband's loyalty soared to such heights—he simply would not have his wife's feelings hurt by a refusal to eat her cooking—even if it damaged everybody's bridge-work.

Another groom of other years tells of bringing home a friend to dinner and his wife, who knew of her husband's fondness for tea, had tea in the percolator perking merrily. Oh, yes, they'll bear a lot when you're young, and they are so proud when at last the bride cooks something really edible, they brag all over the office about it! And when you are no longer a bride, don't think the husband isn't proud of your cooking. I've never heard a man brag about how pretty his wife does her hair, how good a housekeeper she is—but they brag endlessly about what a good cook wife is.

Much has been written, on the subject of masculine tastes, but I think these facts stand out from the rest.

Men like foods so simply prepared that old Mother Nature herself would recognize them. Not much fancy cooking, not many frills.

Men like meat, prefer it to fowl or the best red herring. The less mixing and plenty of it.

Men like steaks and rich meat pies, but they like them better if the ingredients are not overdone and mushy, and if there is no hint of left-over about them.

Men like desserts, but they like hearty, honest desserts, without too much frosting. They prefer fruit pies and cake to almost anything else.

Men like man-sized portions of food. Very seldom do you hear of one dieting. They don't worry about waistlines much.

Reserve the fancy frills and furbelows for lunch time and tea time, when you have women guests.

Would it be asking too much of a bride, to ask you to go to market yourself, even if you have a maid? Food manufacturers are spending a lot of time and money to bring to your market shelves a great many fine, interesting and wholesome foods which can be prepared with the greatest economy on your part. And hardly a week passes which does not register some new prod-

In modern days, as in ages past, a bride's main concern is the establishment of her new home. Into the kitchen, which is her workshop, she goes to delve into the mysteries of cookery. Many, who have to learn to boil water, in due time develop into cooks whose dishes would vie with those of chefs of international fame. Pictured in wedding gown is Mrs. S. W.

Kane, 630 Page avenue, N. E., formerly Evelyn Morse. She has not yet returned from her wedding trip to Canada. Snapped while busy with her new duties is Mrs. Charles E. Sumner Jr., 242 Twelfth street, N. E., formerly Virginia Hart. Mrs. Sumner is a bride of a few weeks.

"Criticism, a Bit Compensating" Writes Doctor

By Dr. William Brady.

Don't be terrified, I said in a recent article, when you sight a dowager bearing down on you. Pull in your chin, take a couple of belly breaths and stand your ground. Chances are at least 50-50 she will prove as pleasant a person as you could wish to chat with. But for goodness sake, don't think of her as elderly.

Now I considered that almost a bouquet. But it only goes to show. Unfortunately, in the attempt to define dowager, I had just opined that it seems too bad that complicity should parade as dignity. That was all I had against dowagers as an institution.

It seems I was flippant, intolerably vulgar and in very poor taste and the space given to my cheap comedy might better be devoted to material value to readers.

Just the same I like 'em, going or coming, and if I have offended one or given her even any embarrassment I sincerely repent, for I tell you I like 'em, especially when they hold true to character and speak plainly at a time when a bit of plain speaking is indicated.

In the article dealing with dowagers I quoted the rule formulated by a life insurance statistician, that two years should be deducted from an individual's life expectancy for every inch one's girth exceeds one's chest measurement after the age of 35.

Not that I derive any wicked pleasure from own experience I infer that the dowagers who resented my remarks were annoyed particularly by the ruthless way I robbed them of years of life.

A similar observation, also made by a life insurance expert, was quoted here recently, to the effect that one may deduct, what was it, 25 minutes? from one's life expectancy for every cocktail or highball, according to the experience of insurance companies in reference to the habits of policyholders. My allusion to this brought the usual shower of exaggerated instances to the contrary.

Then still another observation, this one my own, aroused considerable animosity. I said that a person should deduct a year or two from his or her life expectancy for every tooth lost by accident, disease or intention and not promptly replaced by a functionally efficient denture—and I believe this rule is as sound as any "rule" bearing on health or life. My conviction is not at all shaken by reports of freak instances of edentulous individuals surviving, on a feeble plane but unquestionably alive, to a ripe old age.

Not that I derive any wicked pleasure from own experience I infer that the dowagers who resented my remarks were annoyed particularly by the ruthless way I robbed them of years of life.

Adopting children is a hobby with George Max, 62-year-old osteopath of Hove, Sussex, Max, a Hungarian by birth, is also a director of a leading English football team. He began adopting children in 1904. Altogether he has adopted 11.

Black Embroidery Emphasizes Giant Daisies In New Print

By Sheila Graham.

HOLLYWOOD, July 19.—Paul-ette Goddard, soon to be seen in Paramount's "The Cat and the Canary," owns a snappy frock of yellow, black and white floral print with a cowl, or hood, attached at the back of the neckline. The giant daisies in the print are outlined in black embroidery at the neckline and around the short sleeves. A narrow black leather belt matches Miss Goddard's shoes.

A formal tea gown of chartreuse chiffon, combined with black velvet, is worn by Virginia Bruce in MGM's "Stronger Than Desire." The bodice is of velvet, fitted closely to the figure and laced with fine gold cord. It is worn over a swirling skirt of the chartreuse chiffon. Bracelets made of miniature gold tassels are Miss Bruce's only jewels.

Greer Garson, at a recent Hollywood premiere, wore a brilliant triple-sheer crepe evening ensemble, with shirred bodice and draped skirt. Over the gown she wore a loose-fitting cape of matching material, featuring at the neck a clasp showing two swans of carved ivory, their graceful necks intertwined to form the fastening.

White polka dots swarm over a scarlet background for the jacket Eleanor Powell wears with a costume jewelry with cosmetics is a summer suggestion from Ann Sheridan. For pale blue, green or lavender choker necklaces made of porcelain, she uses similar colored shades of eyeshadow. Lipstick and nail lacquer are chosen to match a rigid bracelet set with amethysts, pink sapphire earrings, a garnet dinner ring and a star ruby brooch.

VISIT CUTS RELIEF. The "clean up, paint up" campaign held in Winnipeg in preparation for the visit of their majesties King George VI and Queen Elizabeth resulted in 240 men leaving the ranks of relief recipients, city officials reported.

Marital Trouble Anticipated By Jealous Wife

By Caroline Chatfield.

Dear Miss Chatfield: My husband has an eye for every woman he meets and, while I can't actually accuse him of doing wrong, I always have the feeling that trouble may be around the corner. I'm sure he loves me as I love him but there is a barrier between us that is getting higher. You will say, as he does, that it is my jealousy. Well, what if it is, I want to overcome it, for I want to keep him close to me as he once was. We have no children and he is all I've got. MRS. D. D.

Answer: What is there to do but what women have always done to keep their men close? Give them daily doses of good housekeeping, good companionship, good entertainment and good boosting. First, make a comfortable home. Some women don't know the difference between an easy chair set to catch the cool breeze and a stiff backed one pushed in the corner. The difference is husband in or husband out.

The heart of the home is a meal table and it should be dainty and the food on it palatable or the man who foots the grocery bill is sold short. Much as we women hate to admit it the difference between good and bad food is husband a good humored creature, or a growling two-legged animal.

Second: Give a husband credit for his generosity, if any, boost him on his business success; encourage him to talk over his problems, sympathize with him in his worries, bite down on the temptation to tell him where he's failed and make him feel that he is still the most adorable, admirable, desirable husband in the world.

Says a man who has been twice married: "We men go home and renew for the next day's struggle and if we don't find an amiable woman with diverting conversation in restful surroundings, a good dinner, and a few compliments thrown in the hours spent at home are more wearing than hours at the office."

Third: Bring back the fun and frolic into the relationship, if it has leaked out. Observe the gala days as lovers always do, put some pep into the celebrations. In other words, don't be a dead end, hard to kick and no fun to laugh and play with. A woman isn't at her best as an individual or as her husband's wife until she has passed the muster of her mirror.

These daily doses may not keep a husband from seeing another woman but they will prevent his making invidious comparisons between them and his wife. The wife who administers them will find that even if they don't cure her jealousy overnight, they will raise her stock with her husband and her fears will be quieted as the stock goes up.

Coast "Masters" Favor 'Frisco Convention

By Harold Sharpsteen.

During the recent All-Western championships of the Pacific Bridge League, which comprises the 11 states west of the Rockies, we noticed both in San Francisco and in Los Angeles, a slight tendency to favor the Blackwood slam-bidding convention over the regular Culbertson four-five no-trump.

This was true except in the case of many West Coast "masters," who are loyal advocates of the "Frisco convention" which has its own special brand of slam bidding features. Starting with the orthodox Culbertson four-no-trump, requiring either three aces or two aces and a king, responses sound something like a cross between the Blackwood convention and an income tax return.

PACIFIC SPECIALTIES. San Francisco claims the bid, which actually originated in Fargo, N. D., about three years ago. The "Frisco" responses to four no-trump are:

5 clubs—No ace.
5 diamonds—One ace.
5 hearts—One ace and one king.
5 spades—One ace and two kings.
5 notrump—Two aces.
6 clubs—Two aces and one king.
6 diamonds—Two aces and two kings.
6 hearts—Two aces and three kings.

Another Pacific coast specialty concerns the response to an opening two-suit demand. You may like it.

NEW "BUST" TAKEOUT. To indicate a "bust" hand, containing less than one honor-trick plus, Pacific coasters respond with the cheapest bid in the next higher ranking suit, as two spades over two hearts. The contention is this prevents the strong hand from being exposed when the contract concludes at three notrump.

A two notrump response shows 1-2 honor tricks, no raise, no biddable suit. Three notrump indicates two to 2-2 honor tricks with a balanced hand.

Til tomorrow.

My Day: How Refugees Help America's Industries

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

HYDE PARK.—I have just read a little pamphlet called "Refugee Facts," a study of the German refugees in America, issued by the American Friends Service Committee. It is an interesting little pamphlet and some of the facts, I think, will be new to many people, just as they were to me. For instance, did you know that under the national origins law, enacted in 1924 and amended in 1929, 155,774 immigrants are allowed to come to this country annually, but of this number Great Britain and Ireland have had as their quota 83,574, and last year only 4,551 people came in under those quotas? This means that not 75,000 came into this country in spite of the larger quota allowance.

During the six-year period from 1932 through June, 1938, a total of 241,962 immigrants were admitted into the United States for permanent residence. During this same period 246,449 immigrants previously admitted to this country for permanent residence moved away, so that roughly, during the six years of the Nazi regime in Germany, 4,487 more aliens departed than were admitted to the United States. Of course, of the number admitted, 50 per cent are not looking for employment, being children, under 18, marriageable women or old people.

A number of other interesting facts are in this pamphlet, including the experience which England has had with its recent German refugees, Jews, Catholics and Protestants. The items which interested me most, however, dealt with refugees admitted to the United States. They were the following: "One German textile man used to own a shirt factory in Germany and sold his wares to South America. Having to leave his homeland, he has transferred his factory to our country and is employing American labor to supply his customers as before."

"Harmonicas and accordions used to be imported from Germany now a refugee has set up a shop for the making of these instruments and American workers are making them."

"A German firm exported until recently certain types of wool hosiery to the United States. Now the three refugees who had owned this firm have re-established it in Massachusetts and are employing 38 American workers in the manufacture of goods which have been imported previously from abroad."

Another refugee has brought over from Germany a patented process used in the manufacture of gloves. The firm he established to utilize this patent now does an annual business of $100,000."

Since no country prospers if its population is on the decline, the above facts seem to indicate that these immigrants will contribute to our well-being as have similar groups in our past history. They seem to be, in the main, a group of valuable citizens.

I hope that you will obtain this pamphlet and read it in full, for I cannot give you in this short column all the facts it contains.

Exercise for Sheer Fun! It's Just as Streamlining

By Ida Jean Kain.

If you want to be popular and keep your husband home—as well as streamline your figure—turn your back yard into a play lawn. There are dozens of inexpensive and expensive games that can be played in any size yard you happen to have and all are guaranteed to do away with life's dull moments.

For instance, one item is a swell practice gadget for the golfer. Set up, it looks like a target, and rings a bell whenever you score a hole in one. Can you imagine a man leaving that just because dinner is getting cold?

A nine-hole golf game, complete with two balls, takes up no more space than a picnic tablecloth. The 12-figure points are arranged in a circle and putts are directed to the hole set just off dead center.

Some of the most fascinating games fit the smallest lawns. Darts can be played either indoors or out. Length is needed for horseshoes, but you can get along nicely with a 40-foot long. Deck tennis is another game for the small lawn, affording plenty of action and fun. For deck tennis, you need a rectangle 20 feet by 40. Cost of equipment of horseshoes is negligible and deck tennis sets are priced to fit any pocketbook.

If bowling is right up your alley, you will be delighted with the new sets especially designed for play on private lawns. One of the most exciting games for the money is badminton—and anyone can play it. For doubles, you need a clear space, 44 feet by 20. Badminton is such a marvelous streamlining exercise that it is the favorite game of Manhattan models who must keep their figures perfect. They find they keep in excellent trim by playing twice a week.

The average croquet lawn measures 71 feet by 28 and the sets are not expensive. Or, you might like a leisure interest in archery—the better exercise for building a beautiful figure. If you lack the back yard space for archery, set up the target in the garage and shoot from the drive.

And how about moving the pingpong table out of doors? That's what they are doing at the country clubs.

If you still are not interested in outdoor exercises, get somebody to move a reclining chair under a nice shade tree for you and just sit there and relax. Sometime there is nothing like relaxing! But do get your money's worth out of your back yard this summer.

Woman's Quiz

Q. How can borers on locust trees be exterminated?

A. Spray infested trees in the spring, when they begin to show green, with poisoned kerosene emulsion or miscible oil solution.

Q. Is there any simple way of removing fruit and berry stains from table linens?

A. If the stains are fresh, pour boiling water from a height through the stain. Old stains can be bleached with Javex water or permanganate and oxalic acid.

Q. What are the necessary articles of clothing to be included in an infants' layette?

A. Shirts, diapers, dresses or night dresses, and a few sweaters supply all baby's needs. Booties, shoes and stockings are no longer considered necessary for a healthy infant, unless the house is cold and he cannot be kept warm otherwise.

Have you a household problem to solve? Write your question clearly, sign your name and address, enclose a three-cent postage stamp and mail to the Women's Editor of The Constitution, Washington, D. C., for a reply. Three of the most interesting answers will be printed here daily. Don't telephone, write as directed.

Tailored Frock Retains Femininity

By Barbara Bell.

It's no wonder we all like button-front dresses so well, especially in the summer-time. They're so cool and easy to get into—no pulling things over your head, a process ruffling to the hair, the dress and the temper! And they look so tailored and neat, iron so easily!

This new design (1787-B) is an exceptionally good example of the button-front, because, although tailored enough to be practical, it has a charming softness, due to the bodice gathers, and inside pleats that narrow your waistline to a beautiful slimmess! Make this of gingham, pique, linen, percale or sharkskin, and introduce a note of color contrast with the buttons.

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1787-B is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 40 and 42. Corresponding bust measurements 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 16 (34) requires 4 3/8 yards of 35 or 39-inch material with short sleeves. 1 3/4 yards to trim.

Send for Barbara Bell's spring and summer pattern book! Make your own smart new frocks for street, daytime and afternoon, with these simple, chic, it's easy, it's economical, to sew your own. Each pattern includes a step-by-step sew chart to guide beginners.

Miss Chamlee and Mr. Howard Jr. Select Their Wedding Personnel

Social interest is focused today in the announcement of the wedding plans of Miss Nellie Chamlee, daughter of Mrs. Jere Chamlee, of Canton, and William Schley Howard Jr., of Canton, whose engagement was announced recently. The marriage ceremony will take place on August 9 at 8:30 o'clock in the evening at the First Baptist church, Canton, and will assemble a prominent gathering of friends and relatives of the bride-elect. The bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jere Chamlee, will perform the ceremony, and Miss Virginia Wood, soloist, and C. W. Beckman, organist, will render musical music.

The lovely bride-elect will be escorted by her brother, Warren Chamlee, and the groom-elect's best man will be brother, Pierre Howard. Mrs. William Gibson Booth, of Canton, will be her sister's maid of honor, and bridesmaids will include Miss Ann Chamlee, sister of the bride-elect; Miss Jacqueline Howard, sister of the groom-to-be, and Miss Mary Baker.

Mr. Howard has selected as his best man, William C. Booth, of Canton; William Conner Rippey, and John A. Griffin, of this city. Ushers will be Jack Savage, E. Smith Sr., Judge Virlyn Moore, Bert Ramspeck and E. L. Tiller. The bride-elect's mother, Mrs. Jere Chamlee, will preside at a reception at her home in Canton after the ceremony, and to assemble members of the wedding party, relatives and close friends of the couple.

Among initial pre-nuptial parties planned for Miss Chamlee is the luncheon at which Miss Virginia Wood will entertain August 5 at 1:30 o'clock at East Lake Country Club. The bride-elect will share honors upon this occasion with Mrs. William Gibson Booth, a recent bride.

Present, in addition to the hostess and honor guests, will be Mrs. J. W. Chamlee, mother of the bride-elect; Mrs. William Schley Howard Sr.; Miss Ann Chamlee, Miss Jacqueline Howard, Carolyn Russell, Betty Wood and Claire McDonough.

Miss Marchman Weds Mr. Longino

BREMEN, Ga., July 19.—Miss Marion Louise Marchman, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. E. L. Marchman, became the bride of Edgar Longino, of Corpus Christi, Texas, at an afternoon ceremony solemnized Wednesday at her parents' home here.

Mrs. Myrl Rivers, pianist, presented a musical program while the guests assembled. She was assisted by Miss Beulah Maude Golden and Miss Helen Seavers, soloists, and George Holden, violinist.

A lovely summer garden formed the setting, with Rev. James Marchman, of Dillard, uncle of the bride, performing the ceremony before an improvised altar of ivy, ferns, Shasta daisies, with baskets filled with white lilies.

The groom's best man was Ernest L. Marchman, of Monroe, La., brother of the bride. Mrs. Trudie McDonald, of Atlanta, was matron of honor. She wore a lilac organza with a large leghorn hat and carried a bouquet of purple asters.

Miss Emily Dean, of Atlanta, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a pink dress and carried a bouquet of pink and white daisies.

The flower girl, Adrian Jones, of Tallapoosa, wore a frock of pale blue dotted swiss. Little David Marchman, of Monroe, La., nephew of the bride, was the ring-bearer.

The lovely bride entered with her father, who gave her in marriage. Her bridal gown was of pale blue dotted swiss, and her finger-ring veil of tulle fell from a coronet of tulle and daisies. Completing her ensemble were silk lace mitts and a bouquet of daisies tied with blue satin ribbon.

After the ceremony Dr. and Mrs. Marchman entertained at an informal reception for their daughter and Mr. Longino. Receiving with the bride and groom were the bride and groom, the members of the bridal party, Mrs. Ernest Marchman, of Monroe, La.; Rev. and Mrs. James Marchman, of Dillard, Ga., and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Moye, of East Point.

Miss Jeanette Brooks, of Augusta, kept the bride's book, and assisting in entertaining were Mrs. Ed Walker, Mrs. A. R. Lovvorn, Mrs. A. G. Reynolds; Miss Ruby Guice, Mrs. Walton Lanier, Mrs. Don Howe, Mrs. Alton Jones, Mrs. Virginia Frey, Misses Sue Boyd and Phyllis Lovvorn.

Mr. Longino and his bride left for a wedding journey. Among the guests from a distance who attended the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Marchman, of Monroe, La.; Mrs. C. L. Longino, Miss Verona Longino, Frank Longino, Mrs. Evangeline McCay, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Seavers, Miss Helen Seavers, August Fisher, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Burmann, Miss Eloise Cook, and Mrs. L. Willoughby, all of Atlanta; Miss Mildred Phillips, Miss Luda Mangham, Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Frey, Miss Virginia Frey, Miss Doris Self, Miss Clarice Parrott, all of Marietta; Mrs. L. C. Waldrup, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Don Howe, of Tallapoosa; Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Moye, of East

Miss Betty Fugitt Becomes Bride Of James Young

Wide social interest centers in the announcement made today by Mr. and Mrs. Carol Townshend Fugitt of the marriage of their daughter, Miss Betty Fugitt, to James Blake Young, son of Mrs. I. D. Young and the late Mr. Young. The marriage of this popular young couple was solemnized on July 7.

One of a quartet of lovely daughters, the bride is the sister of Misses Dorothy, Marion and Edith Fugitt. Carroll T. Fugitt Jr. is her only brother. Mrs. Fugitt was before her marriage Miss Marion Lee Forsdick, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Harry James Forsdick, of Memphis, Tenn., Mr. Forsdick having come to this country from his home in Shrewsbury, England. On her paternal side Mrs. Young is the granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Mathaniel Brady Fugitt, of Montgomery county, Maryland, and Washington, D. C., the latter having been before her marriage Miss Betty Dade, of Maryland.

The bride is a graduate of the North Avenue Presbyterian school, where she was an outstanding student, taking many honors in scholastic and athletic activities. She was a member of the varsity basketball team for all four years in school and during her senior year was awarded the C. E. Harrison Athletic cup for her unusual athletic ability. Mrs. Young was also chosen president of the Athletic Association. Upon her graduation from North Avenue, she attended Oglethorpe University, where she was pledged to the Chi Omega sorority.

Of a striking brunet type, the former Miss Fugitt is commanding and attractive in appearance, her beauty combining dark hair and eyes with an olive complexion. Slender and graceful of figure, she wins instant admiration with her personal magnetism and vivacious charm, and is a popular member of social circles in Atlanta.

Mr. Young is the grandson on his paternal side of Mrs. T. B. Young and the late Mr. Young, of Lineville, Ala. His mother was before her marriage Miss Bernice Zachry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Zachry, of Roanoke, Ala. The bridegroom is a graduate of Boys' High school, where he was an officer in the Alpha Phi fraternity. He is affiliated in business with the Gulf Oil Company. The bride couple is residing with the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. I. D. Young, at 1006 North Highland avenue.

Miss Doris Reese Weds Mr. McCleskey

Wide interest is centered in the announcement of the marriage of Miss Doris Reese to Thaddeus Wallace McCleskey, which took place June 30 at the home of the bride on Rose circle.

The ceremony was performed at 6:30 o'clock by Dr. Irby Henderson, pastor of Park Street Methodist church, in the presence of the immediate families and a few close friends.

The bride was gowned in a smart costume of navy blue and white, with navy accessories and a shoulder bouquet of briarcliff roses and valley lilies. Completing the ceremony, Mr. McCleskey and his bride left for a wedding trip through Tennessee and Alabama by motor. Mrs. McCleskey is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley M. Reese, of Atlanta, formerly of Birmingham, and Mr. McCleskey is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James L. McCleskey, of this city.

The groom holds a responsible position with the McCray Refrigerator Company on Peachtree street. The couple are now residing on Olympic circle, West End.

WEEP FOR LOVE

Kim Asks Betty To Let Him Know When She Returns From Paris

By RUBY M. AYRES.

Synopsis to preceding installments:

When Derek Challenor's wife dies, the stately English landowner, whose marriage had been the result of a family understanding, is glad of his freedom and vows he will never marry again. Then he sees dainty Stella Dawson playing a small part in a suburban theater and is an ardent suitor. She marries him, imposing Narrow Lane Hall upon him, but he ignores her request to live in his small house in London. She is happy when her baby is born, until the Challenor tradition puts little Elizabeth in charge of nurse, then governess. After seven unhappy years she welcomes the open adoration of impecunious Pip Hulbert. When a vicious threat to Stella's life is made, she pleads with Derek to return. He refuses and after her mother marries Pip, Betty pines, becomes very ill and Derek's doctor says she will die if not permitted to go to her mother. When Elizabeth is 18 Pip is killed in an accident and Stella is inconsolable. While on a bus trip a year later, Elizabeth meets Kim Lawless whose wood she invaded to pick primroses despite a warning to trespassers. She likes him and he says he picks the same again. Derek dies, leaving Elizabeth half his wealth if she leaves Stella and lives with her Aunt Thornley. Her stepfather Penelope hates her but she can't understand her decision to remain with her mother. Penelope tells her she was to marry Kim Lawless but he broke the engagement. Stella dies suddenly and Elizabeth lives with Aunt Thornley. At the Selby dance she meets Lawless. He asks if she doesn't think it right to break an engagement when it's a mistake. Now go on with the story:

INSTALLMENT XII.

"Supposing it's like this all the way!" Elizabeth said.

"It won't be," he assured her. "It's just coming up over the fields. We shall be out of it presently." But, though he spoke cheerfully, he looked a little apprehensive.

"I'm afraid of fog," Elizabeth said abruptly. "It shuts you in so—like a blanket. It makes me feel stifled."

"You're afraid of so many things," Lawless said after a pause. "What things?" she asked resentfully.

"Of life," he answered. "You insist upon looking at it through a powerful magnifying glass so that everything seems enormous and terrifying and that makes you afraid. You let your imagination run riot among giants and all the time they're really not such bad fellows," he added humorously.

It seemed a long time before she asked, "Have you a father and mother?"

"No, my father died when I was a small boy, and my mother three years ago."

"And were you very fond of her?" Elizabeth asked sympathetically.

Lawless hesitated. "Perhaps you will be shocked when I say—not very," he said at last. "She was not very fond of me either. She never wanted children. She was a very young-looking woman, young in her mind, too. Like Peter Pan, she never grew up properly. She was always trying to extract the last ounce of enjoyment out of life, always running about in search of fresh amusement." There was a note of pity in his voice. "She sent me to boarding school when I was seven and, as she was generally away from home during holiday time, I saw very little of her. She died—three years ago. I think she hated dying," he added soberly.

Elizabeth raised her eyes quickly. "Poor soul," she said. "Perhaps she was happy and that's why she hated it."

Lawless asked with a touch of irritation, "Is it so rare a thing to find people who are happy?"

"Yes, I think it is," she said hesitatingly. "I think when you get to know people really well, you find more of them sad and disappointed."

"Elizabeth," he broke in ruthlessly, "I should like to shake you."

She laughed then.

"I thought there was to be peace in our camp," she reminded him, and he answered: "I hope you will still feel that you can say so when you come back from Paris."

"I shan't be any different," she said confidently, and he replied: "You can't be sure of that—Paris does queer things to some people."

Elizabeth thought, "And now he's thinking of Penelope," and her heart ached.

They were moving very slowly and, presently, when Lawless let down the window to peer out, the gray mist swirled into the car like a veil floating from a woman's head. Elizabeth shivered.

"This is a nuisance," he said calmly. "Still, we've got plenty of time. Look out for a sign post, will you, Elizabeth?"

"We passed one just now," she told him. "I think it said Dover, 40 miles."

Unconsciously she moved a little nearer to him as she added: "I've never been in a fog like this before. Not in a car."

"Haven't you?" I have, once, when I was coming down from Scotland with—"

He stopped abruptly, but her quick mind supplied the name he would not speak—Penelope.

"We came through Yorkshire," he went on, "thinking to get a good view of the moors—it was early October—but there was a worse fog than this and it was impossible to find the road."

"What did you do?" she asked very quietly.

"We were fortunate enough to come across a farmhouse, and we had to stay the night. There was a touch of ironic reminiscence in his voice which Elizabeth was quick to hear, before he added laughingly: "I remember that my bedroom was full of aunts—thousands of them. . . . Confound this fog!"

A man leading a horse suddenly loomed up before them, and Lawless stopped to call to him.

"Is it like this all the way?" The man took a pipe from his mouth before he answered: "I've only come a mile."

"Helpful fellow," Lawless said dryly, and he drove on, asking presently: "When you return, will you go to the Selbys' place?"

"I don't know," I suppose it all depends. Will you let me know when you return?"

"I don't know where you live," she said rather formally. "There was no address on the card you gave me, that day in the woods."

He laughed.

"The day you said you hoped the primroses would not mind being taken to London. It seems a long time ago, Elizabeth. Will you let me know if I tell you where I can be found?" he went on. "I have a telephone."

But he couldn't ring you up just to say "I'm back," she protested. "Supposing you were out?"

"If I am out, you can leave a message, which I shall be very happy to receive."

They drove some way in silence—silence all the more profound because of the greyness which seemed to shut them in on every side.

"I believe I've missed the road," Lawless said at last. "I must get out and see where we are."

Elizabeth watched him disappear into the fog, wondering why it was that every important thing he had said since they left High Chimneys had made her heart shake. She tried to keep the thought of Penelope before her, tried to remember that she too had loved this man.

She—too? Elizabeth bit her lip and closed her eyes, speaking her sister's name aloud. "Penelope!" That was how, when she was a small child, her mother had taught her to memorize the thing she was apt to forget.

"Say it over to yourself again and again, darling, till it is so firmly fixed in your mind that you will always remember."

And something warned her that just now she must not forget Penelope, who was alone in Paris—and ill.

Lawless came back and took his seat beside her.

"I think we're all right," he said, "but it's difficult to be sure."

They may come across a cottage or someone who can tell us if we are in the right direction. I thought I saw another signpost just now but it proved to be only a board proclaiming to the world that somebody's brand was better than somebody else's."

He turned on the dash-board light to look at the time. "Only nine. We may do it yet." He glanced down at her. "I'm terribly sorry this has happened," he said.

Elizabeth laughed. "As if it's your fault there's a fog!"

She wondered whether he and Penelope had minded about it that time on the moors, when it had been impossible for them to get home.

And then she seemed to hear her sister's scornful voice: "Don't ever fall in love! It won't last, if you do, and you'll only be hurt."

She tried to visualize Penelope sitting where she was sitting—with the same man beside her, only perhaps she had held Penelope's hand. . . .

"Have you had this car a long time?" she asked presently. Something it seemed tremendously important to know.

"A few months—I forget the exact time," Lawless answered. "Why?"

"I only wondered," Elizabeth said: "it's a nice car."

No use to deny it, she knew. Lawless laughed. "You're a merciless critic, Elizabeth. I should not be so ready to condemn you if you had made a similar mistake."

"I was not condemning you," Elizabeth said quietly, though her heart was beating fast. "It is nothing to me who rides in your car or what mistakes you make," she went on haughtily. "Besides, it was Penelope who broke her engagement to you."

"And is that a sufficient reason for you to distrust me?" he asked: "Because your sister jilted me?"

His voice was sarcastic. "I hate you when you talk like that," Elizabeth said sharply.

"Only when I talk like that?" he asked; and as she did not answer, he said more quietly: "The fog seems to be clearing. You will soon be rid of me."

For a time he was able to increase speed, only to slow down once more as again the fog thickened.

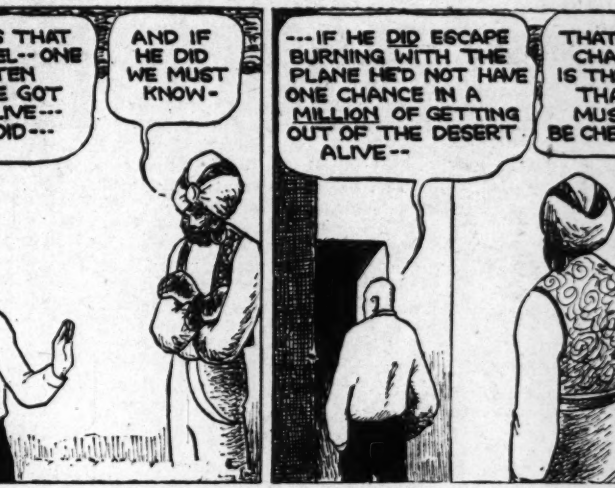

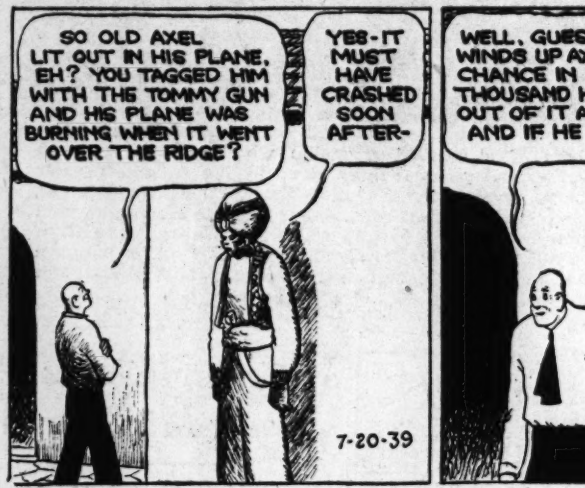

"We shan't catch the boat, shall we?" Elizabeth said anxiously.

All in the GAME

by Jack Troy

The "dream" event of boyhood—The Constitution-Chevrolet Motor Company All-American Soap Box Derby—will be run off for the sixth consecutive year on Saturday afternoon.

Zone finalists and survivors of local preliminaries will compete for the coveted honor of being the driver to represent Atlanta and The Constitution in the national races at Akron, Ohio.

Yesterday the important preliminaries of weighing in and checking cars as to specifications took place at the John Smith Motor Company. The day's business was largely devoted to preparations for the race. Barney Stodghill took note of the steady stream of machines accompanied by their youthful drivers, brothers, sisters and parents and stood off and watched the show. James Stanton (Shang) Reed said he had a lot of work to do, but he was doing more watching than anything else.

The Derby is really contagious. It is not possible to be around it without catching the spirit. The bright-eyed youngsters bob up with ingeniously-designed machines and are so pepped up over the coming race that no one has to tell them they won't get much rest between now and Saturday.

H. M. VanDevender, who has directed the Derby for The Constitution since the start, imparted the information that in the six years, close to 6,000 cars have been entered—and no TWO have been MADE nor PAINTED alike.

Just think of that! The ingenuity of some of the youngsters is commanding. They have spent months of work at designing and constructing their cars and with a canny eye toward streamlining the colorful jobs so as to produce maximum efficiency with the least amount of weight. One hundred and fifty pounds is the maximum for weight.

VanDevender, in his six years of experience in directing the event, notices that de luxe streamlining is more apparent than ever before. About 90 per cent of the cars are designed along lines of least resistance. Then, too, the boys have learned the desirability of putting their front wheels as far back as possible to give them more speed on the downhill grade.

WEIGHTS AND MEASURES.

In events of this kind there always are the unsung heroes and yesterday they happened to be T. W. Whipple, Barney Collins, W. P. Reed and Frank Eubanks.

Whipple and Collins, representing the Toledo Scale Company; Reed, the city's weights and measures man, and Eubanks, Constitution employee, had charge of checking in and numbering the cars.

There was no air-conditioning where they worked from early morning until late afternoon, surrounded by anxious drivers and their relatives and friends, and the poundage they lost easily would amount to a small-sized Derby entrant.

"BETTER BLACK YOUR FACE."

One of the youngsters asked VanDevender if there was going to be a race for negro boys and VanDevender told him there would be two.

The youngster was inquisitive about prize money and when he learned it amounted to something worth while, he called to a chum—
"Say, Joe, you'd better black your face."

STARTING RAMP.

An innovation in the Derby this year is to be a starting ramp on the new course at Fourteenth street on Northside drive, two blocks from the waterworks.

The cars all will be assured an equal start. They will be lined up on the ramp and held in place by steel plates. When the starting signal is given, the plates will be tripped.

Red Singleton, noted Atlanta driver, will act either as official starter or finish judge, in place of Harry Hartz, who will not be here this year. The races, of course, are held under official Triple A sanction and will be witnessed by at least 25,000 spectators. It is the most appealing sporting event sponsored by a newspaper.

Ferdinand's Corner: Harry Mehre does pretty well for a college coach who doesn't have an airplane. . . . The Ole Miss mentor was encountered in New Orleans recently. . . . A week later he was encountered in Memphis. . . . Yesterday he was here in Atlanta, with a great story about the traveling salesman

ADAIR PARK NINE REACHES FINALS OF LEGION MEET

Tigers Whip Purple Hurricane, 6-2, in Fifth District Play.

By EARNST HARWELL.
Adair Park's hustling Tigers battered the Purple Hurricane, 6 to 2, yesterday morning at Glenn field to enter the finals of the American Legion's fifth district sandlot tournament.

This afternoon at Glenn field the Tigers will meet the DeKalb Barons for the right to represent Atlanta in the Legion tournaments. Game time is 3:30 o'clock.

Led by the timely hitting of Big Jack Russell, the victorious Tigers pushed over one run in the third inning and added two more in the fifth. They took advantage of Hurricane errors to score once in each of the final three frames.

It was in the seventh that the Hurricanes rose up in all their batting fury to threaten the Adair nine. Lloyd White walked, took second on Malone's single, and scampered home when William Morris slapped one to left. Then Dick Almond was safe on an infield error and the bases were filled with none out. Clint Castleberry hit a long sacrifice fly to right, scoring Malone.

Bobby Morris poked a single to left field, again loading the bases. With only one out Jack Russell came in from first base to relieve the tiring Mike Dorsch. He set the next two Hurricane batters down on easy infield outs and assured the Adair hustlers their victory.

With all its misplays the game was not without the fielding gems. In the first inning Dick Dendinger, Hurricane third-baseman, snapped an Adair rally when he grabbed Russell's grounder, tagged third and rifled the ball to first for a double play.

Dot Kirby Has 78 In LaFayette Match

LA FAYETTE, Ga., July 19.—Dorothy Kirby, of Atlanta, fired a great 78, two over women's par, in an exhibition golf contest here today. She had an eagle and two birdies on the first nine.

Louise Suggs, of Lithia Springs, carded an 84, which included two birdies. Martha Daniels, of Rome, shot an 87, and Mrs. R. A. Wardlaw had a 101. A large gallery followed the fours.

Medalist Dannels Upset in 1st Round

Ely Callaway Jr. Beaten by Robert Daniel in Opening Round of Highland's Tourney.

By ROY WHITE.

LAGRANGE, Ga., July 19.—Charles Dannels Jr., Atlanta's open golf champion, won the medal in Highland's annual invitation tournament but was sent to the sidelines today in one of two sensational first-round upsets, along with Ely Callaway Jr., one of LaGrange's favorites.

Cliff Hunter, on the ragged edge of the championship fight and drawn into the selected circle (there being no time left for a playoff), eliminated Dannels, 3-2, to start the upsets, with Robert Daniel, another LaGrange boy supplying the finishing touches when he beat Callaway, on the 18th green, one up.

LOW SCORERS UPSET. Trailing Dannels in the preliminary round was Callaway with a 74, and Jeff Owens of Hickory, N. C., with a 77. Owens is president of the Carolina Golf Association and the Charlotte Country Club champion. He had probably the best recovery of the qualifying, carding a 34 on the back nine after a shaky 43 on the front side. But so tough is the Highland course, that the 77, seven strokes over par, was plenty good enough for third place.

Hunter gained an early advantage over the Atlanta and turned two up with near-par golf. On the back nine Cliff made it three at 10, where Dannels topped his drive into the rough at the left and took an extra stroke getting back into fair territory. The LaGrange boy continued to hold the advantage, though Dannels fought back with every weapon in his bag, only to be closed out on the 18th green.

Dannels ran into all kinds of trouble this afternoon. His putting was not up to standard and several of his drives were off line so much that it meant an extra stroke on two or three holes. He was behind all the way after the first few holes.

ALL-LAGRANGE MATCH. The All-LaGrange match between Daniel and Callaway was another of those backyard scraps, with neither player having any advantage until the 18th green. They were all square at the turn. A large gallery was so much interested in the Dannels-Hunter match, conceding Ely a fine chance to get into the finals, that Daniel and Callaway had only the other members of the foursome as witnesses.

Owens and Dallas Weaver, of Cedartown, had a fine match, with Owens winning on the 18th green, one up. William Beavers, of Newnan, won in several weeks, caught the first flight matches just before they reached the turn and slowed the other flights up so that several matches were halted on account of darkness and will be completed first thing on Thursday's program. Another delay in the first round matches was caused by some late Wednesday morning qualifiers.

The tournament drew 115 of Georgia's leading amateur players. That was a dozen more than last year and a new record for out-of-town players.

RAIN SLOWS PLAY. A heavy rain, the first for LaGrange in several weeks, caught the first flight matches just before they reached the turn and slowed the other flights up so that several matches were halted on account of darkness and will be completed first thing on Thursday's program. Another delay in the first round matches was caused by some late Wednesday morning qualifiers.

CHAPMAN LEADS 17-HIT BARRAGE ON STEIN, SMOLL

Patterson, Smoll Only Crackers To Solve Martynik for Singles.

By JACK TROY.
Mike Martynik, who has lost more games than he has won this season, last night was within four batters of pitching a no-hit, no-run game against the Crackers, who ultimately took a sound 10-to-0 drubbing from the rejuvenated Nashville Vols.

Martynik, pleased by the cheers of the Atlanta fans, had only to retire J. D. Patterson, Dixie steel catcher, and he would have eight innings of hitless ball to his credit.

Patterson broke up his playhouse, however. The semi-pro catcher hit a hard single to right center on which Calvin Chapman made the effort supreme. But Chapman couldn't get the ball and Martynik's bid for the Southern league Hall of Fame was denied. Clyde Smoll followed with a short single to right and the Crackers had their only two hits of the game.

Last night's victory was the sixth against nine defeats for Martynik, former Memphis pitcher. The small left-hander was in

It's in the milling, whirling pack that decisive action takes place in the national skating derby at the city auditorium. Cracker Joe Ohmes and Ranger Nassif Kiamy, extreme rear, have just lapped and overtaken the pack in a half-mile, 10-lap dash for score. Left to right just ahead of them, Crackers Hobbs and Redd, Ranger Hutson and Cracker Jackson maneuver at breakneck speed, each to let his own teammate through and at the same time block out his opponent. Crackers Myers and Hooten, chief Ranger blocker, are out front pacing the pack to favor Kiamy. The derby continues through Friday with two games nightly.

CRACKERS SCALZI, OF PELS, NOW FREE AGENT

CHICAGO, July 19.—(AP)—Frank Scalzi, an infielder optioned by the Cleveland Indians to New Orleans, was declared a free agent today by Kennesaw M. Landis, commissioner of baseball, who said investigation had disclosed Scalzi filed claim for free agency on the ground he had been covered up by Cleveland. Investigation establishes that the facts are as asserted by the player, and accordingly, he is declared a free agent, with the provision he may not be signed by Cleveland or any affiliated club within three years from this date.

Scalzi, whose home is in Yorkville, Ohio, was brought up by Cleveland from New Orleans this spring. The game President Trammell Scott presented Ray Blaemire, Vol catcher, with his award for the All-Star game. Blaemire, who was selected on the team, couldn't make the trip to Memphis because of illness.

Jennings Pointdexter will face the Vols in the final game of the series tonight. He probably will be opposed by Orin Collier. Ladies again will be admitted free to night. John Patrick, Oglethorpe coach, just back from a visit home in East Chicago, Ind., was present last night and will spend his time between now and the opening of football season rounding up some freshman football prospects, he said.

WHIT WYATT BEATEN.
BROOKLYN, July 19.—(AP)—The league-leading Cincinnati Reds stretched their latest winning streak to three games tonight when they won 10 to 1 against the Brooklyn Dodgers in a night game, 4-2. Whit Wyatt, who was relieved in the tenth inning when the Reds scored two runs, was the losing pitcher.

RED RANGERS WIN Two Skating Tilts.
The Red Rangers launched a desperate attack to overcome the Blue Cracker's lead in the national skating derby and took both games Wednesday night, 18 to 11 and 27 to 23, making the derby game scores 21 to 23, with only four games left to play in the remaining two nights of the meet.

Only by winning all four of the remaining games may the Rangers take the derby. Loss of one game would throw it into a tie, 24-24.

MEDALIST DANNALS UPSET IN 1ST ROUND.
town entrants was set when 57 non-LaGrange players were listed in the pairings shortly after noon today.

Atlanta had seven entries with Dannels leading the way. The other Atlantans in the first round were J. W. Strickling, R. B. Howard, Ed Toledano, Doug Coleman and Bob Smith.

Terry Should Be Fined $5,000 for Riding Umpires'-McPhail

PLANTS MAKING FORCE OF GAME, LARRY CHARGES

Dodger Prexy Admits
New York Pilot Probably Best in Baseball.

KANSAS CITY, July 19.—(P)—Terry MacPhail, red-headed president of Brooklyn's Dodgers, believes Manager Bill Terry, of New York's Giants, should be fined $5,000 "for making a farce out of baseball" and told him so today over the telephone.

MacPhail, here to attend tonight's American Association all-star game, fumed:

"Consider what's happening. These Giants led by Terry are making a farce out of baseball by the way they're torturing umpires. In the exception of Bill Klem—did they can't intimidate him—they've got all the others afraid to do anything.

"And they're letting Terry get away with it. A dozen times in a game he stages those pseudo conferences which last about three minutes apiece. Then they kick on everything. They ran one umpire named near out of the park.

"Personally, I believe Terry is the best manager in the National League. I could go even stronger than that. I say he's probably the best manager in baseball.

"He hasn't a club that ought to be in the pennant this year but I know this is the year he really wants to win the worst way. It could be a personal reflection on his ability if he could take that club, which contains three good players at the outside, and top the league with it.

"And I say there's nothing personal in my comment on Terry. In fact he called me on long distance telephone today. He wanted the Brooklyn club to vote immediately to reinstate Jurgens who was suspended for that affair with Umling. Magerkurth. Since the situation is exceptional because the Giants have lost Chiozza now, I told Terry that sure I'd vote to have Jurgens reinstated.

"Then I added: 'But I think you ought to be fined $5,000, Bill. And I think the money ought to come out of your own pocket, too.'

DIXIE STEEL BEATS WARREN IN 16TH

Shoemaker's single in the 16th inning yesterday scored W. Patterson from third and gave Dixie Steel their fourth straight victory over Warren, 3 to 2.

Patterson had doubled to left with one down and advanced to third when Rowan dropped a throw to third. Then Shoemaker's single to center broke up the sterling pitchers' battle. Mayo and Crisler hurried for the winners while Maher and West worked for the Warriors.

Both teams gathered 11 hits with W. Patterson's two doubles doing the most damage to Warren hurlers. Spurlin, Hornsby and Mayo also got two each for Dixie Steel.

Moody got three for Warren while Harper and Dillingham got two each.

GUNTHER MEETS SHADOW TONIGHT

Either the Red Shadow, the man of mystery, will be unmasked tonight at Warren Field, or Joe Gunther, the southern junior heavyweight champion, will lose his title.

Promoter Warren has matched Gunther against the Shadow in tonight's main event and one of the two will lose his laurels.

Frankie Chambers, a newcomer from Texas, meets Jim Goodrich, of Akron, in the semi-final while Jim Spanos, of Greece, encounters Mike Cassidy, an old favorite, in the opener.

In occupying the prominent spot he does on this program, Joe Gunther defies one of the leading matmen in the south today to try and remove his crown. Gunther never refuses to put his crown at stake, and this is one of the most important matches he has had since he won the title last fall.

How much longer Gunther can keep the title remains to be seen. Already he has held it longer than most wrestlers keep their laurels. The show starts at 8:30.

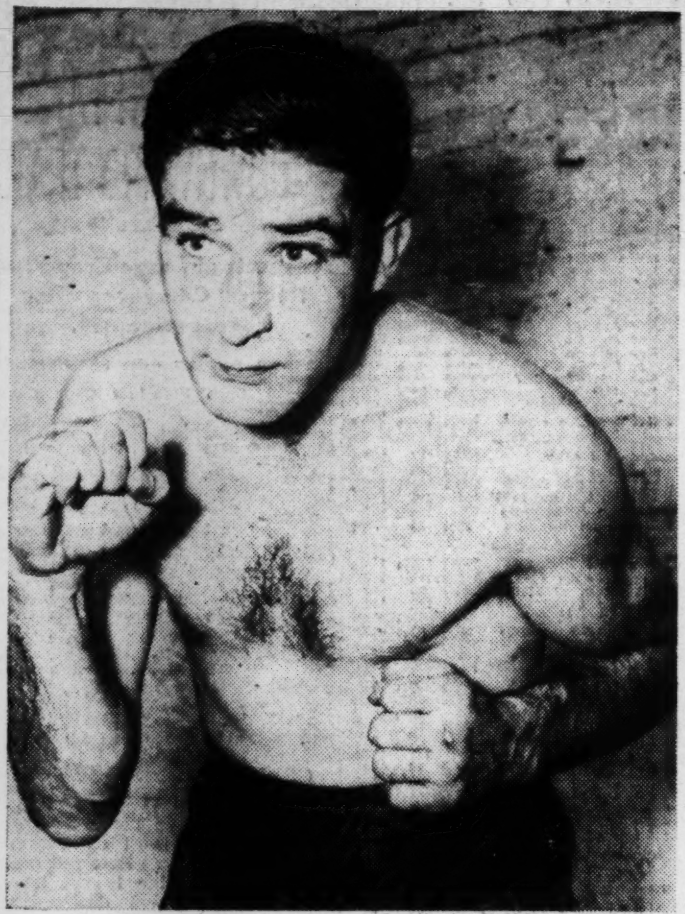

Races Set Sunday For Jackson Lake

Southern motorboat stars are tuning up for another all-star attraction Sunday at Jackson Lake. Leading drivers headed by Claude Smith will compete on the big waterway.

The races will mark a resumption of the Louis Trotter-Smith feud and also will bring into action George Miller, Ralph Cutler and Ted Ferguson, from Atlanta; Fred Thomas, Augusta; Frank Gossett, Griffin; George Guy, Greenville, S. C.; Guy Staniel, Gainesville; Freeman Groover, Lithia Springs, and Ross Pfaff, Auburn, Ala.

Three previous outboard programs at Jackson, under the direction of Carl Flock, have been very successful.

TITLE CONTENDER MOVES HERE

Kenny LaSalle, fourth-ranking welterweight in the world, will make Atlanta his home in the future. Formerly of Los Angeles, this French-American has beaten many of the game's leading stars and is slated to fight Henry Armstrong at St. Louis in October. LaSalle's victims include Izzy Jannazo, Fritz Zivic (currently ranked No. 1 contender), Bobby Pacheco, Steve Halaiko, Kid Azteca and Andrew Jessurun. LaSalle's coming here means Atlanta now has two nationally-ranked fighters, the other, of course, being Ben Brown. LaSalle expects to make his ring debut here in the near future.

'Dat Wasn't No Man-- 'Dat Was a Tigah,' Boss

Pa Stribling Recalls How Tiger Flowers Was Discovered as Fighting Stevedore.

By THAD HOLT.

"And in this corner," boomed Announcer Fat Elrod, "we have Young Tiger Flowers."

Pa Stribling, sitting there at ringside for the Elmer Ray-Leroy Haynes fight at the ball park Tuesday night, let a far-off look creep into his eyes and repeated slowly, almost under his breath—"Tiger Flowers. . . Tiger Flowers. There—was a fighter."

Then turning to his companion he asked, "Did you ever hear the story of how Tiger Flowers was discovered?" The answer was no, and so completely ignoring the clumsy efforts of the fighter in the ring who had taken the name of a great ring warrior of another day, Pa Stribling told this story:

"Down at Brunswick, Ga., where the stevedores loaded the ships with cotton, the men liked a little amusement when they knocked off for lunch time. Some of the boys got to putting on the gloves and the sport proved so popular that soon it became a daily attraction and lured people from miles around.

ONE STANDS OUT.
"Always there was one young negro who stood out above the rest. He had been taught nothing, yet he had a natural gift for fighting that made him far and away the master of his opponents. His footwork and all-around skill attracted praise from all sides.

"Foremen secretly slipped away from Brunswick and hired the toughest negroes they could find and put them into the ring with the young Brunswick sensation. Always it was the same story. Young Flowers was a natural. He hit too fast and too hard. Brunswick business men began to realize that in this quiet, polite little negro they had something. They wanted to find out just how good was Flowers. And so they sent a message to Walt Miller, who was handling a stable of fighters and running a gymnasium in Atlanta. 'Send us the best you've got,' said the wire. 'We've got a wonderful boy down here and we would like to put on a 20-round fight.'

"Walt Miller had a tough, game negro named Billy Hooper. Many old-time fight fans will remember him. Miller called Billy and said: 'I want you to go down to Brunswick. They have a country boy down there who they think can fight. Take it easy for a few rounds. Don't hurt him at first. Then knock his ears off about the sixth round. And hurry back. I've got some work for you to do here in Atlanta.'

A WEEK LATER.
"It was a week later that Billy Hooper, bandaged and bruised and barely able to walk, knocked meekly on Walt Miller's door.

"Where in blazes have you been and what happened to you," roared Walt. 'I told you to go down and flatten that hayseed and come on back. And what in sam hill are you doing all bandaged up?'

"Boss," moaned Billy Hooper in tones hardly audible through riddled lips. 'You sent me down there to fight a man. Dat wasn't no man. No sir, dat wasn't no man. Dat was a ligah!'

"Walt Miller believed what he saw. He caught the next train for Brunswick and brought the Flowers boy back with him. And sure enough, Billy Hooper was right. He was a tigah. And the name stuck.

"Tiger Flowers, there was a fighter," said Pa.

MACON WOMEN ATTACK 2 UMPS WITH SLIPPERS

Dish Water Poured on Another as Fans Riot at Sally Game.

MACON, Ga., July 19.—(P)—Irate women baseball fans doused one umpire with dish water and attempted to maul two others with high-heeled slippers in riotous protest of decisions last night when Augusta beat Macon, 6 to 5.

Male fans belligerently joined the shouting denunciations of the three umpires—Hyder, Rowland and Henderson of the South Atlantic league—until Macon police escorted the trio to their hotel in a police car and posted a guard before their rooms.

President Roy G. Williams of the losing Macon Peaches threatened possible withdrawal of his team from the league "unless we can be assured of a better brand of umpiring during the 1940 season."

At Augusta, Dr. Eugene Wilder, league president, declined to discuss the Macon situation pending a complete report from players and umpires.

The umpires, assigned to work another Macon-Augusta game here, prepared to take their positions tonight on the diamond despite objections by Williams.

"I had a decision to make and made it like I saw it," Hyder said of a "runner out" ruling which so upset a woman fan she dumped a bucket of water over him.

"No comment" and "Can't discuss the case" summed up the statements of Henderson and Rowland.

Albert Gelders, of the Macon Telegraph, tacked a bald "This time we wuz robbed" headline on his account of the game, and quoted Williams as saying the game was "as poorly officiated as any I expect to see in my lifetime."

Although fans protested several decisions, it seems that Hyder's call precipitated the trouble in the eighth.

Two-Club Semi-Finals Are Slated for Today

Semi-final matches in The Constitution's second annual two-club tournament will start this morning. The semi-finals must be completed by Sunday night as the finals in all flights are scheduled for early next week.

Participants in the semi-final round are requested to communicate with their opponents as soon as possible or with Charley Edens, the James L. Key professional at the club.

BENTON ENTERS JUNIOR FINALS

Curtis Benton, the medalist, continued his fine play to enter the finals of the Druid Hills Junior Championship tournament yesterday with a 2-1 triumph over Bobby Adair. Benton is still one under par for the tournament.

B. G. Stowe became the other finalist by defeating Lefty Tomlin, 7-6, and will meet Benton for the title this morning at 9 o'clock.

In the first flight semi-finals, Charlie Childs and Drew Fuller advanced to the finals and will play today. Childs bested Bill Holbrook, 1 up, and Fuller turned back Joe Benton, 2-1.

Joe Sewell and John Hall became finalists in the championship consolation. Sewell conquered Bob Taylor, 1 up, while Hall whipped George Ewing 2-1.

Tommy Ewing and Jack Holbrook, who won their way to the first flight consolation finals, will play their title match today.

Ansley Park Golfers End First Round.

Second round matches must be completed by the end of the week in the Nat Kaiser cup qualifying at the Ansley Park golf course.

First round results follow:

First Flight: A. E. Burton beat W. M. Lohse, 3-1; C. P. Stearns beat L. H. Van Riper, default; C. R. Varborough beat G. M. Phillips, 2-1; Paul Andrews beat Wood Staton, 1 up; Royal Terrell beat Guy Whitehead, 1 up; E. F. Blake beat Harry Thompson, 1 up 20 holes; J. S. Whitner beat H. J. Morris, 2-1; Ed Merritt beat E. H. Taylor, 3-2.
Second Flight: H. E. Mayfield beat A. H. Underwood, 2 up; W. D. Garner beat Phil Von Weller, 1 up 20 holes; F. G. Williams beat H. W. Persons, default; Riley Elder beat W. T. Hanson, 3-1; W. C. Cheney beat A. R. Raines, 4-2; H. T. Green beat A. C. Miller, default; Dan McIntyre beat W. N. Kennon, default; J. N. Lester beat George Van Dusen, default.
Third Flight: E. S. Sanford beat H. O. Stabler, default; C. O. Johnson beat Stanley Green, 2-2; Dr. Lange beat Don James, 5-4; C. H. Holmes beat E. G. McLin, default; C. E. Jarvis beat H. W. Stabler, 1 up; E. L. Robinson beat L. W. Bode, 1 up; Sam Hollingsworth and Don Bolton were all even at 18; W. M. Stafford beat C. C. Clower, default.

Leg Injury Benches Charley Gehringer

DETROIT, July 19.—(P)—The management of the Detroit Tigers announced tonight that Charley Gehringer, second baseman, suffered a new leg injury in yesterday's contest with Washington and will be out of the game indefinitely.

Gehringer pulled a leg muscle several weeks ago in a series at Cleveland. The new injury was described as "a muscle injury similar to the one which occurred recently but not the same muscle."

Gehringer, now 36 years old, is in his fourteenth season with the Tigers.

Tallahassee Skipper Bought by Lookouts

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., July 19.—(P)—Ralph McAdams, catcher-manager of the Tallahassee baseball club of the Class D Georgia-Florida league, has been sold to Chattanooga, of the Southern association.

Cecil "Slim" Tysson, first baseman and the league's leading hitter, was appointed temporary manager of the Capitals. McAdams, veteran Southern and Southeastern league catcher, joined the team midway of last season.

Terms of the deal were not announced.

Favorites Advance In Kennolia Meet

Favorites continued to win the annual Kennolia tennis meet yesterday but coasting is over and seeded players will have much stiffer competition in today's round.

Preston Chambers defeated L. R. Williams, 6-2, 6-0; Cortez Suttles whipped Bill Teague, 6-2, 6-2; Jack Teague beat George Ray, 6-1, 6-1; and Carlisle Vason eliminated Asa Wilson, 9-7, 6-2, in yesterday's play.

Today's rounds:
Preston Chambers vs. winner Bledsoe-Thompson match, 8 o'clock.
Red Endow vs. Jud Fowler, 5 o'clock.
Glenn McConnell vs. Donald Floyd, 6 o'clock.

BRIGHTER FUTURE IS SEEN FOR TVA

Lilienthal Predicts Power Authority Should Soon Be 'Making Money.'

WASHINGTON, July 19.—(P)—David Lilienthal, TVA director, envisioned for President Roosevelt today a bright future for the Tennessee Valley Authority, predicting it would be "making money" shortly and estimating that its eventual revenues would be $25,000,000 annually.

He asserted that he had informed the President the closing of deals for the Tennessee Electric Power Company, and other Commonwealth & Southern Corporation properties in north Alabama and Mississippi would leave behind the agency the most controversial parts of the power program.

Lilienthal said he reported to the President the reaching of an agreement last night at Nashville under which a new $78,600,000 contract for the purchase of the Tennessee Electric Power Company properties will be consummated August 15. Under a compromise, bond bill passed last week, TVA can issue up to $46,000,000 to pay its share of the deal, with Chattanooga, Nashville and other municipalities and co-operators paying the balance.

JACOB HUNTER, 107, SUCCUMBS IN RABUN

Veteran Remembered Day of Lee's Surrender.

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.
CLAYTON, Ga., July 19.—Jacob Hunter, 107, Rabun county's last veteran of the War Between the States, died last night at the home of his son, Logan Hunter.

He was born a mile and a half from Clayton, 13 years after Rabun county was formed in 1819, and when the war began he enlisted in the company of Captain Jabal Cannon. He fought through the war and was present at Lee's surrender at Appomattox. One of his prized keepsakes was a chip from the tree under which Lee stood at Appomattox. Despite the fact he lived long past the century mark, he retained a vivid memory of wartime experiences.

Surviving him are his wife; three sons, Logan and Joe Hunter, of Tiger, and John Hunter, of Greenwood, S. C.; three daughters, Mrs. L. C. Hollifield, of Tiger, and Mrs. J. R. English and Mrs. Dan Seay, of Clayton; a number of grandchildren and great-grandchildren, and ten or more great-great-grandchildren.

GEORGIANS TO USE SIX 155 MM. GUNS

179th Field Artillery Begins Training With Howitzers.

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.
FORT MCLELLAN, Ala., July 19.—With the arrival of six of the 155 millimeter howitzers, borrowed from the South Carolina national guard, the 179th field artillery of Atlanta, today began training in earnest.

These guns of the latest design with carriages of high speed traveling are identical with those which will be issued to the Atlanta troops in the near future. They were brought to Fort McLehlan by Major E. E. White, of Sumter, S. C.

Special schools were organized today by Colonel T. A. Alexander, camp commander, in order to take advantage of the presence of these latest weapons. Officers of the regiment are receiving instruction in conduct of fire, and the non-commissioned officers are dismantling the guns. Major J. R. Reynolds, regular army, unit instructor for the regiment is in charge of the schools. He is assisted by Lieutenant Colonel T. Collins, Major G. B. Drummond, and Captain J. P. Goode, all field artillery reserve officers of Atlanta.

Captain Frank Kopf has been designated as athletic officer.

CHARGE CHANGED IN TORSO SLAYING

Cleveland Man Admits Cutting Off Head; Faces Manslaughter Trial.

CLEVELAND, July 19.—(P)—A first-degree murder charge against Frank Dolezal, charged with one of Cleveland's 12 torso slayings, was reduced today to manslaughter after testimony of a policeman that the 52-year-old bricklayer confessed cutting off the victim's head only after she was dead.

"He kept denying he killed Mrs. Florence Polillo," Olin Troescher, police lieutenant of East Cleveland who was with Dolezal during a "lie detector" test, told the court.

"Then I took him into another room and he admitted that he and Mrs. Polillo were together. 'Florence and I had been having a few drinks,' Troescher quoted Dolezal.

"I gave her a dollar. She began to steal more. I tried to stop her. She slapped me. I slapped her back. She picked up a knife. I took the knife away and hit her on the chin. Her head hit the kitchen sink. She was dead when I cut her head off."

Based principally on this testimony, the charge placed by Sheriff Martin L. O'Donnell against Dolezal was reduced to manslaughter, and bond set at $15,000.

The next grand jury, meeting Monday, can indict the native Bohemian on any charge from first degree murder to manslaughter, or refuse to indict at all. Manslaughter conviction carries a sentence of one to 20 years.

Here on Good-Will Tour

ANTONIO PICASSO P.

PERUVIAN ENVOY VISITS IN ATLANTA

Seeks Contacts With Manufacturers To Supply Materials.

The consul general of Peru in the United States was in Atlanta yesterday on a "goodwill" tour of the south, seeking contacts with manufacturers who could supply his country with needed materials and who in turn needed goods he had to sell.

He is Antonio Picasso P., of New Orleans and Lima, Peru. In Atlanta, he was chiefly interested in meeting machinery manufacturers.

Mr. Picasso disclosed that lumber is Georgia's chief export to Peru, but the South American country is in the market for canned food, cotton goods and similar articles. Very little is imported in Georgia from Peru due to the principal Peruvian exports being oil, cotton and sugar, products easily obtained in Georgia from other sources. Other exports of the South American country are wool, gold, silver and copper. Twenty-five per cent of Peru's imports are from the United States while she exports only 20 per cent of her raw materials to this country.

HOUNDS TRACK BOY TO EDGE OF CLIFF

Lad Lost on Face of Maine's Highest Peak Since Monday.

MILLINOCKET, Maine, July 19.—(P)—A bloodhound trailed 12-year-old Donn Fendler Jr. late today to the brink of precipitous "Saddle Slide" high on rock-strewn Mount Katahdin.

A shoe owned by the lightly-clad Rye, N. Y., boy lost on the face of Maine's highest peak since Monday in temperatures described as "close to freezing," fitted the tracks along which the dog led State Trooper James Grant for about two miles.

The "slide" is an almost sheer drop of nearly 400 feet to the nearest mass of rocks, well above the timber-line.

A Faint Chance.
Roy Dudley, veteran mountaineer who operates the state's Chimney Pond camps, still further below the slide said it was "faintly possible" the boy could have survived such a fall.

News that the dog had stopped at the edge of the slide halted operations of the 106 searchers for the night, and brought from Donn's haggard father, sleepless since he became separated from his son near the summit, the comment:

"I'm trying to make myself believe there's still a thread of hope."

To Send Volunteers.
Officials planned to send the youngest and most wiry volunteers from Chimney Pond toward the base of the slide tomorrow.

Millinocket selectmen considered asking the state to order out Millinocket's company of the national guard.

The office of Governor Lewis O. Barrows in Augusta announced two more bloodhounds were being flown tonight from Hawthorne, N. Y., because those being used were tiring fast in the heavy woods and dense undergrowth of the treacherous 5,273-foot mountain.

COWBOYS' LARIATS
SAVE TRAPPED YOUTH.
DOUGLAS, Wyo., July 19.—(P)—Using lariats, two cowboys rescued 17-year-old Leonard Morris, trapped for 12 hours on the face of a sheer 150-foot cliff.

Morris, a high school athlete, became stalled about 5 p. m. Sunday on a ledge 50 feet up the side of a cliff he was trying to scale. He clung with outstretched arms to two rock points.

Two companions, unable to reach the trapped youth, drove to a cow camp and summoned Charles Claffin and Art Sims.

Scaling a little way down the cliff, the men let down their 35-foot lariats, tied together. Morris looped the rope around himself and the cowboys pulled him to safety.

ROGERS' EMPLOYEES ARE ASSAULTED

Gang of Six Attacks Pe-lice Report.

Two negro employees of Rogers stores were victims of early morning assaults yesterday by a gang of six other negroes, it was reported by police.

George Rosser, 29, of 145 Montgomery street, S. E., was attacked at a house at 111 Hunter street, Lincoln Hicks, 41, of 437 Mitchell street, was badly beaten as he was walking along Mitchell street his way to work. Both were treated at Grady hospital and dismissed.

Rosser later identified J. L. Dillard, 19, of 120 Glenwood avenue S. E., and G. H. Hill, 26, of Ella street, as two of the group that attacked him. They are being held on suspicion of assault.
